BOY MURDERED IN LITTLETON

Tragedy at Dawn in Lonely Home—Victim Dies at Hospital

Eugene R. Drily Under Arrest—Says Young Man Annoyed Him

Charged with the cold blooded murder of his stepson, Vincent Paul Planich, 15, by splitting his head open with an axe as he lay asleep, Eugene R. Drily, formerly an engineer on an interned vessel of the central powers, was locked up in Ayer after he had according to the police, confessed to the brutal crime. The skull of the Planich boy, who was in his second year at B. U. law school, was crushed by the blow, which extended across the top of the head and forward on the forehead as far as the left eye. The alleged murder took place early yesterday morning. In the Littleton dwelling where Drily, his wife, mother of the victim, and Planich resided. The authorities received their first intimation of the crime when Drily visited the home of Chief Frederick C. Reed of the Littleton police, Sunday morning about 6.15 o'clock, and said he believed he had killed his stepson. He requested Reed to return to the Drily residence and "straighten matters out." Drily's manner impressed the chief as that of a woman, and at first he failed to credit the story he told. However, Drily persisted in his assertion, and finally he was arrested while an investigation was immediately undertaken by the police. As a result of

Two-Thirds of Commerce Chamber's Members 'Indifferent to Packing House

Friends and Foes of Plant Claim Victory as Referendum Result

Two-thirds of the members of the chamber of commerce have little or no interest in the warfare that has been waged for several weeks for and against the coming of a packing plant to Lowell, to occupy the premises of the Harvard company, judging by the returns from the referendum on the subject that closed Saturday night and the returns from which were given out today.

CLEVER DEVICES TO CONCEAL MOONSHINE

A device worthy of detective fiction was employed by Narcissa Gilbert, the police say, to conceal moonshine at his soft drink establishment located on Moody street, but to no avail. The members of the liquor squad stated that they discovered 12 pint bottles, containing Canadian high wine, beneath a top in a staircase at the establishment. A mechanical arrangement enabled the owner of the wet goods to get them from the hiding place. George Pontius, says Officer Kivlan, also had a clever method of keeping the unlawful fluid on his Adams street premises. He had, states the officer, a barrel containing the beverage placed on the roof of a shed or outhouse which stood on the property. He also fell for the marked bill game, say the police, and is alleged to have sold a plain clothes man a pint of home made for two dollars. Gilbert was charged with illegal keeping, and had his case continued to March 25. He was released in bonds of $300. Pontius, charged with illegal sale, will have a hearing on March 25.

BURGLARS STEAL SAFE IN LYNN

Loaded It Onto Truck But Encountered Trouble When Machine Broke Down

Transferred Safe to Wagon, Opened It, Took $1000 in Cash and Jewelry and Fled

CHILSEA, March 21.—Burglars stole a safe containing $1000 in cash and jewelry in Lynn, early today and instead of cracking it on the ground, loaded it on a motor truck to open it at leisure but encountered trouble when the truck broke down here. Impressing a horse and wagon they transferred the safe and carried it away. They must have forced it as they went because when it was recovered shortly afterward at a barn on Blossom street, the contents were gone.

Harry Ruckman of this city, driver of the truck, was arrested while he was trying to repair the machine. He said his only part in the safe robbery was under hire on what he thought was a simple trucking job, but with James Franklin who was arrested later he was charged with breaking and entering. Other men were sought also. The safe was taken from the jewelry store of Louis Cantler on Neptune street, Lynn. Cantler said it contained $300 in cash and $700 worth of jewelry.

FIRE IN BOSTON HOTEL

Score of Scantily Clad Guests Driven Into Street Early This Morning

BOSTON, March 21.—An early morning fire drove a score of scantily clad guests into the street from the Hotel Majestic in the West End section of this city today. Several women used the joy street police station as their boudoir until their clothes were rescued by firemen.

Police and firemen with searchlights found several persons huddled in the hall, bewildered by smoke, and assisted them to safety. Employees of the hotel discovered flames in the walls between the hotel lobby and cafe. Because of a break in the gaspipe members of rescue company No. 1 donned gasmasks to protect them from the fumes. The damage was small.

YOUTH ON TRIAL FOR MURDER

Confessed Part in Hold-up of Ticket Agent and Shooting of Detectives

One of Five Armed Men Who Took Part in $15,000 Robbery at Toledo

TOLEDO, Ohio, March 21.—Edward Foley, alias Hughey Foley, 18 years old, of Omaha and Denver, who police say confessed to taking part in a hold-up and robbery of a New York Central railroad ticket agent, and the shooting to death of two railroad detectives, went on trial here today.

He is charged with the murder of Louis Schroeder, one of the detectives. Boyce Richardson, a negro, is in the Ohio penitentiary awaiting infliction of the death penalty for slaying Schroeder.

On Jan. 17 last Austin Reed, a ticket agent and the detectives were on their way from the Union station to a bank more than a mile distant. Near the railroad station, an automobile carrying five armed men crowded the bank car into the curb. At the same time, the men opened fire on the occupants of the bank car. Schroeder and O. E. Long, another detective, were killed. The ticket agent escaped unharmful. The handi got away with more than $15,000. Of the five robbers Richardson and Foley were the only ones to get caught.

CHAMBER REPORTS ON STREET CONDITIONS

Petitions were received at the last meeting of the municipal council asking for the paving of 13th street with a macadam surface, and for the acceptance by the city of Pentucket ave. for a distance of 500 feet from Anderson street and the acceptance of E street from Powell to School st.

The reports of the chamber of commerce survey of the streets of the city, was announced today, show that the engineers who investigated the condition of the streets rated the highways mentioned as follows: Eighteenth street—Gravel surface, ungraded, in fair condition; Pentucket avenue, ungraded, in fair condition; E street, gravel surface, in poor condition. It is explained that by gravel surface is meant a mixture of gravel and cinders.

ASK LODGERS ABOUT BOMB

Bridgeport Doctor's Home Wrecked and Windows Within Half Mile Broken

Job Work of Someone Skilled in Use of Explosives, Says Police Chief

BRIDGEPORT, Conn., March 21.

Occupants of a rooming house were questioned by the police today in connection with the explosion of a bomb shortly after midnight which wrecked the front part of the Lafayette street residence of Dr. J. E. H. Smith and broke windows within a radius of half a mile.

The lodging house adjoins the Smith home and police officials acted on the theory that the bomb, probably containing dynamite, had been set under the Smith front porch by mistake. Each lodger was asked if he had a personal enemy of radical tendencies.

"The job was plainly the work of someone skilled in the use of high explosives," Police Superintendent Flanagan declared after examining the scene of the explosion. "We have no idea why the bomb was placed."

Dr. Smith said he knew of no enemies who would attempt to take his life or damage his property.

DECLINE IN PRICES

Purchasing Agent Cites Drops in Commodities

Striking evidence that there has been a substantial decline in the prices of most of the commodities used by the various local municipal departments since the beginning of the present year is furnished by Purchasing Agent Edward H. Foley who is able to cite decreases ranging from 10 to 15 per cent. during the past three months.

These reductions, of course, may be considered reflective of decreases in the general cost of living because the goods bought by the city departments cover a wide range and include many of the things needed to maintain the ordinary private household.

For instance, in the item of coal alone, a product used by most individuals, Purchasing Agent Foley reports a drop from $17.50 per ton which he was paying three months ago to $16.50 per ton, the figure quoted him on his most recent purchase. He looks for a still further decline.

Another staple commodity, flour, is also on the toboggan. The city is now buying it for between $10.50 and $11.50 per barrel. This represents a drop of $3 from the price paid six months ago.

In lumber there has been a drop of from $30 to $25 per cent. since Jan. 1. The other day Mr. Foley was able to buy a lot of lumber for $60. A few months ago the same lot would have cost near $100, he says.

Potatoes, another standby of both the municipality and of individuals, are selling today for $1 per bushel. A year ago the city was paying $1.75. Sugar can be bought for eight and a half cents per pound. It wasn't long ago that it was soaring up around 20 and 25 cents.

Hardware is coming down, the purchasing agent says, but more slowly than other commodities. Outs that were selling for $1.45 per bushel a year ago can be bought today for 70 cents. Good hay is still commanding a fairly stiff price but the poorer grades are coming down slowly.

Old Father Winter, shivery and shaky, did not do any lingering in the lap of Miss Spring this year. Instead the young lady promptly took the old gentleman by the ear and, even before the appointed hour for his departure, pushed him out of doors.

Yesterday is reported to have been the warmest day of winter that has been known in this city in many years. It was warm all over New England and in Boston people went in large numbers to the beaches to escape a sweltering temperature that reached 77 degrees in the afternoon.

PETER RAISED THE ANTE

Check Raiser Elated by First Try Gets Caught in Second Venture

Peter Pagnon was arrested today after attempting to pass a raised check. The arrest followed a series of strange occurrences in local banking circles. According to police information, Pagnon appeared at a Middlesex street bank early last week with a check on which the sum in figures had been changed from $10 to $100. The written sum had not been altered, but remained at $10. Nevertheless, he received $100 from the bank. It is stated. Afterwards the mistake was noticed and with the assistance of a Chelmsford man, who had endorsed the check, Pagnon was located and returned the $100, the bank declaring an unwillingness to prosecute. Apparently elated by his near approach to success, Pagnon this morning entered a local bank located in Merrimack street, and presented the same check for payment, demanding $100, although no further attempt to disguise the real sum called for had been made. The written amount was still $10, while the number had been changed in the same way, by the addition of an extra zero. The teller to whom Pagnon applied detained him at the bank while he notified the police, and Pagnon was arrested.

PLEBISCITE IN MINE REGION

Overwhelming Majority Against Poland in Upper Silesia Referendum

Official Returns Give Germany 876,000 and Poland 389,000

BERLIN, March 21. (By Associated Press)—Germany won an overwhelming victory in the plebiscite held in upper Silesia yesterday to determine the future national status of that region, according to official returns received here. With two districts missing the count showed that 876,000 votes had been cast for Germany to 389,000 for Poland.

Provisional returns published in newspapers here show that in Oppeln, Germany received 20,000 votes to 11,000 for Poland. In Tarnowitz the Germans cast 86 per cent. of the ballots and in the town of Beuthen they cast 75 per cent. In the Beuthen country districts the vote, as published, stood Germany 52,222, Poland 22,046. In Koenigschuettel the Germans received 25,000 and the Poles 10,851. In the Polesia district the vote stood Germany 75,531, and the Poles 66,137, the town of Kattowitz voting Germany by 93 per cent. In Hindenburg, the Germans cast 36,676 votes to 31,625 by the Poles, while in Reusburg, the German vote was 33,350 to 1536 for the Poles.

Will Enforce Decision

OPPELN, March 21. (By Associated Press)—German military forces in Upper Silesia will promptly suppress any effort on the part of the Polish army to override the decision in yesterday's plebiscite, or to anticipate the action of the council of ambassadors in Paris, Gen. Lerond, head of the inter-allied plebiscite commission, told the Associated Press today. He said rumors that the Poles had been concentrating an army on the Silesian frontier were wholly without foundation.

"Should they cross the border," continued Gen. Lerond, "they would be met by machine guns and rifles, American and the rest of the world may depend upon me to maintain the neutrality of this zone. The Poles understand that they cannot overrun allied authority and I am confident they do not intend to attempt it."

The view expressed here was that a few people might cross the border from Poland, but it was not feared that the situation would get out of control.

Rumors that 30,000 Polish troops were marching toward the border of upper Silesia with the intention of invading the plebiscite zone if the result of the voting was adverse to Poland, have been current here. A motor trip along the Polish frontier showed the presence of the usual Polish sentries, but there were virtually no entente troops on the Silesian side of the border. It might be possible that a number of troops or civilians could suddenly cross without meeting with serious interference.

The balloting in the plebiscite was virtually over by midafternoon. No disorder of a serious nature was reported. During his trip through the zone, a number of Germans attempted to confiscate the Associated Press correspondent's automobile at Eichenau to take six persons to the polls, but the attempt was unsuccessful.

LIVED 26 HOURS WITH HIS HEART EXPOSED

NEW ORLEANS, March 21.—Physicians at a New Orleans hospital, yesterday decided to furnish a complete record for medical journals of the case of Ben Hoelzel, aged 50, who died Saturday after living 26 hours with his heart exposed to the eyes of hospital surgeons.

While working in a coffee grinding plan Friday, Hoelzel's left sleeve was caught in a machine. His arm was mangled and a piece of flesh, the size of a man's head, was torn from his breast, leaving his heart exposed, the ribs directly over that organ also being torn away.

The fact that the injured man lived 26 hours after the accident is said by physicians observing the case to be most remarkable.

HUNDREDS SHE SPENT SIMPLY THROWN AWAY

Lowell Woman Says Her Troubles Made Life Miserable for 20 Years—Tanlac Restores Her Health

"It seems almost unbelievable, but it's true, Tanlac brought me relief from stomach trouble that had made my life miserable for twenty years," was the remarkable statement of Mrs. A. Mullen, of 12 Hatchelder place, Lowell. She further said:

"I got to where I ate hardly enough to keep a bird alive, as I dreaded the agony I knew would come if I ate a real meal. I had frequent suffocating spells, when I could hardly get my breath. Sometimes these spells came on when I was in bed and I would have to get up and sit in a chair for hours."

I felt miserable in the mornings, so tired and worn out I really felt worse than when I went to bed.

"I tried everything under the shining sun I ever heard of trying to get relief, but nothing reached my case. I spent hundreds of dollars on treatments and medicines of one kind and another, but it was just so much money thrown away. I hadn't been taking Tanlac long before I realized it was entirely different from the others, as different as day is from night.

"It has not only given me an appetite and a perfect digestion, but it has made me feel the way I have wished to feel for many a year. It is a wonderful medicine that ought to be in every home. It certainly will always be in mine."

Tanlac is sold in Lowell by Green's Drug Store, under the personal direction of a special Tanlac representative by Webster Drug Co., Billerica, Mass., Shaw's Pharmacy, Concord, Mass., and by the leading druggist in every town. —Adv.

BUILDING BOOM PROSPECTS POOR

State Department Report Discloses Continuation of Marked Reductions

Only Thirteen Out of Thirty Cities Show Increase in Building Activities

Department Report Notes General Improvement in the Textile Industry

(Special to The Sun.)
STATE HOUSE, Boston, March 21.—Marked reductions continue to feature the reports on building operations which the state department of labor and industries collects each month from the various cities of the commonwealth.

For the month of February, out of the thirty cities reporting to the department, thirteen showed increases in building activity and seventeen showed decreases.

Boston, however, is included in the group of thirteen, and with its increase of almost $4,000,000 in building operations, as indicated by permits applied for, causes a net increase of approximately $150,000 over the month of January.

Outside of Boston, however, the permits applied for in February indicated building operations amounting to only $1,121,106, as compared with $3,641,151 for January, $3,295,263 for February of last year, and $3,356,502 for January of last year.

Figures for some of the leading cities follow:—

	February 1921	January 1921
Boston	$3,969,300	$3,641,151
Chicago	17,630	5,300
Fall River	9,425	20,544
Holyoke	2,760	34,450
Lowell	73,377	$3,000
Lawrence	53,590	36,730
Lynn	36,500	35,215
New Bedford	116,700	1,331,786
Northampton	5,125	4,800
Pittsfield	17,200	15,123
Springfield	18,720	15,123
Waltham	5,900	22,750
Worcester	235,552	231,005

As to industrial conditions generally, the department says the reports which it has at hand indicate an improvement in the textile industry, especially with reference to the manufacture of woolen goods, although it is felt that output of the mills is as yet far from normal. No great improvement has been noted in the boot and shoe industry, only those factories which have orders on hand being operated to any great extent. Conditions in the metal and machinery trades have undergone but little change, and a few enterprises have been noted of further curtailment. Business in general has not improved as rapidly as was hoped for, but con-

THE LEAGUE OF CATHOLIC WOMEN

Associate Hall Crowded at
League Meeting Held
Yesterday Afternoon

Address by Mary Boyle
O'Reilly — Oratorio by
League Choral Club

The League of Catholic Women held one of the most successful meetings of its career yesterday afternoon in Associate hall and so appreciative were the members of the program which had been outlined for them that they filled every seat on both the floor and in the balcony and scores were forced to stand.

There was a dual attraction to the affair: First, the appearance of Miss Mary Boyle O'Reilly, who gave a stimulating talk on "We Women Now," and second, an oratorio by the league choral club with no less a difficult composition than Rossini's "Stabat Mater" as the undertaking.

The orchestra was given by the 50 members of the club under the direction of Mrs. John T. Donohue with all the confidence and grace of professionals and the league orchestra under the direction of Miss Marie J. C. O'Donnell helped materially in making the affair a success. The soloists were Mrs. Joseph W. Green, William Gookin and Herbert Proctor Lawrence and a quartet consisting of Miss Teresa Statter, Mrs. Nana Gallagher Leahy, John McMahon and J. Brunelle sang their part of the oratorio with effective skill. Although the club had been training for the undertaking but a short time, it gave a most enjoyable presentation and the chorus numbers seemed to indicate a much larger group of singers than actually appeared.

Miss O'Reilly's Address

Miss O'Reilly was introduced by Miss Alice T. Lee, president of the league, and after expressing her pleasure at an opportunity to address Lowell Catholic women, told of the new duties and responsibilities which have come upon women since the close of the war and the advent of suffrage. She said that the three outstanding results of the war were the rise of women in importance and responsibility, the fall of autocracies, "whether they call themselves kings or Tories," and the recognition of Americanism and American ideals.

Illustrating the rise in importance of women, she told of the precautions which the English government had taken at a time when there were rumors of a landing of German troops on the English coast. All along the coast a drill had been established so that when a klaxon sounded the women in charge of each farmhouse brought her children and valuables together, hitched a farm wagon and made for a concentration camp. Miss O'Reilly had the privilege of seeing one of these drills and she said that it was admirable to see how coolly and ably these women took full charge of the undertaking. "Do you think we are going to say, 'Yes, my dear, have it your way,' after women have demonstrated such courage as that?" she asked.

Undoing Work of War

Miss O'Reilly said that women disclaimed all responsibility for the world war because they were not empowered with citizenship at the time and that one of the first duties of women in their new world is to help undo the work of the mad years between 1914 and 1918. "In the first month of our citizenship," she said, "we saved the country from a hundred years' war by defeating the League of Nations."

The speaker said that all the leading generals in France were Catholics and that if Foch had been given his high command sooner, the war might have ended in 1915.

She said that women were nervously stronger than men and that they must show their appreciation that it was by the efforts of men that women were saved from the terrible dangers of Prussianism, Prussianism, she said, died as soon as feminism came into the world.

She said that the world had failed to appreciate America's humane side before the war, because we had never had an opportunity to show it. We were looked upon merely as a prosperous nation and had not shown our warm hearts and our desire to help the suffering.

She pleaded for an elimination of hatred in the reconstruction period and said that many of the atrocities attributed to the Germans were manufactured in Paris and London and that Lord Northcliffe was one of the chief manufacturers. Miss O'Reilly spoke feelingly of Cardinal Mercier and other Catholic heroes of the war.

When she met Premier Asquith in London and he asked her to describe the Germans had done in Belgium, she said she told him that they had done nothing worse than England had done in her colonies.

The Irish Sufferers

She said that this country should protest against the present suffering being caused in Ireland because we, as American citizens, pledged ourselves to look after the rights of small nations when we entered the war. She looked for good results from the appointment of George Harvey as ambassador to England and in the concluding part of her lecture denounced the activities and policies of Lloyd George, Sir Edward Carson, Winston Churchill, King George and other English leaders. She said that Lloyd George was the Lucifer of modern politics and that he had lost his soul after 1914.

Following Miss O'Reilly's lecture, the Mandolin club, under the direction of Joseph A. Handley, played a medley of Irish airs, complimentary to the speaker.

Miss Lee made a number of announcements concerning the various activities of the various league committees and said that since the last meeting, three members, Margaret McManus, Jennie Watson and Rose Heath, had passed away. Rev. Joseph A. Curtin, spiritual director, opened the meeting with a prayer.

Boy Murdered in Littleton

Their inquiries, coupled with the finding of the unconscious Planchet, who later died in the Deaconess hospital, Concord, charges of first degree murder were lodged against the self-confessed slayer. In the course of his story, told to the police authorities, Dr. Driely asserted that Planchet had chased his mother into the woods the day previous, after having threatened her with a hammer. This may have proved the immediate cause of the crime, especially since had blood is said to have existed between the two male members of the household for a considerable length of time. Mrs. Driely, however, made emphatic denial of the hammer incident when questioned by the authorities.

Died in Hospital

When Chief of Police Reed visited the Dr. Driely home, after having taken the alleged murderer into custody, Planchet was found lying on a cot in the living room, with a huge cut across the top of his head and partly down his face. Blood had soaked into the bedclothing and mattress, and a large pool had dripped to the floor. From the wound on the victim's head, blood was still welling. Although unconscious, the Planchet boy was still alive, and was removed speedily to the Deaconess hospital. He failed, however, to regain consciousness, and expired at noon. The room here no traces of a struggle. The walls near the cot displayed splatters of blood, but aside from these and the pool on the floor the room was in order. Chief Reed and the other officers who had arrived on the scene made a search of the premises, and in a woodshed the axe which the stepfather said he had employed in the commission of the crime was discovered, spotted with blood, both on the wooden handle and the steel blade.

Mrs. Driely Questioned

Mrs. Driely was now questioned as to her knowledge of the killing. She told of her son going to the movies in Concord Saturday evening in the company of another boy who resided in the locality. When young Planchet reached his home, about midnight, the Dr. Drielys had retired, says his mother, and he undressed and went to sleep on the cot. About 5 a. m. Sunday, she says, Dr. Driely rose and went downstairs. Shortly afterwards, while the footstep of her husband seemed to indicate his presence in the living room, she heard a moan, but attached no importance to the sound. In view of her son's habit of moaning while asleep, at 5.30 o'clock she arose and dressed. Going to the ground floor, she failed to find her husband, and she entered the living room. To her horror she perceived that there was blood beneath the cot on which lay the body of her son, while splatters of red covered the wall at his side. The body, which had been pulled up, so that it concealed his head. Hastily pulling the blankets from young Planchet's face, she was overwhelmed by the sight of a huge gash extending back from his forehead. The blood which still gushed from the wound had dyed the sheets, and soaked the night clothing of the boy. Hysterical, she ran from the house and sought the dwelling of a neighbor, in the hope of obtaining assistance. She had not returned from this residence, which lies at a distance of two hundred yards from the Dr. Driely home, when Chief of Police Reed reached the scene of the crime, accompanied by other police officers. The investigation which was immediately commenced established the fact that there were no witnesses to the blow which resulted in the death of young Planchet. Only the story told by Dr. Driely of his own volition furnishes any basis for a theory of the circumstances surrounding the fatal occurrence. The latter's manner, combined with the harshness of detail with which he gave his information to the police, has given some possibility to the belief that a sudden attack of criminal insanity, brought about by unpleasant relations with his victim, may have induced the deed.

Prisoner Is Retained

Dr. Driely, who had expressed an unwillingness to revisit the scene of the crime, remained at the station house during the police investigation. When Assistant District Attorney Frank Goldman arrived in Littleton, shortly prior to noon, he also viewed the house and woodshed. He then proceeded to Ayer, where he sought an interview with Dr. Driely. It was found, however, that the accused had engaged Attorney John D. Carney as his counsel, and declined to make any statement. Neighbors and officers of the Littleton police department who were queried by Mr. Goldman furnished the only information obtained by the state. Dr. Driely was arraigned in the Ayer police court this morning on charges of first degree murder, and pleaded not guilty. His case was continued to March 31.

Denies Ill Feeling

Mrs. Driely's insistence that there has been no ill feeling between her husband and her son leaves the precise motive for the crime veiled in mystery. However, it is believed possible that the accused may be a sufferer from hallucinations which led him to think that the boy had threatened his mother. Again, from other sources than the mother of the dead boy, the police have received information which may uncover evidence of unfriendly relations between the pair. However, the residents of the locality where the Dr. Driely residence stands have little knowledge of the family. The Dr. Driely dwelling is on the Boston road. Mr. and Mrs. Driely, together with Planchet, moved there from Cambridge, it is said, less than half a year ago. The husband converted a house in the rear into a garage, and there carried on an automobile repairing business. Young Planchet would have completed his law course in 1922. It is said that Dr. Driely, who was an engineer on an interstate vessel of the central powers, married Mrs. Driely some years ago, during the early part of the war. Later he took out his papers for American citizenship, and has a clear record in the communities where he had resided.

Lightning Flash Could Light Your Five-Room Flat for Month

DR. STEINMETZ AT WORK ON STUDY OF LIGHTNING

Special to The Sun.

SCHENECTADY, March 21.—The energy in one flash of lightning would illuminate the average five-room flat for a month.

The energy of a lightning flash, figured at 5 cents per kilowatt hour, would be worth 70 cents, says Dr. Charles P. Steinmetz, chief consulting engineer of the General Electric Co., who has just completed a study of the subject.

Its power Dr. Steinmetz computes to be about 36,000,000 foot pounds, or 15 horsepower. A bolt of lightning strikes with the energy of a 200-ton train going at 50 miles an hour.

Why It "Strikes" Rain

"Lightning is the passage of a very high voltage current of electricity from one spot to another," says Dr. Steinmetz. "But while it is true that occasionally this current passes from cloud to cloud or from cloud to the earth, it usually is within a thundercloud."

"It, therefore, seems to be due to equalization of electric pressure differences within the cloud, rather than to this charge between oppositely charged bodies."

"Lightning occurs mainly when rapid condensation of moisture takes place in the air, and the electric phenomena seem to be the more intense, the greater the rapidity of condensation or rain formation."

"Thus the atmospheric electric disturbances seem to be connected with the clouds and rain. And there you have the reason why lightning is usually coincident with a rainstorm."

The Raindrop
"A raindrop, of course, is made up of tiny particles of moisture. Many such particles unite and so form larger parer portions, are under higher electric pressure or voltage, and there is an unstable equilibrium, until finally the point becomes sufficient to overcome the resistance of the intervening air, and there is a lightning flash and the voltage is equalized.

"There are really three things which make up the lightning flash:

"The electric pressure, or 'voltage' of the thunder cloud.

"The current or flow of electricity in the discharge, given in 'amperes.'

"The duration of the discharge.

"All these three quantities multiplied give the energy.

"The human eye, of course, is not capable of measuring the infinitesimally short duration of a lightning flash, and the flash is seen merely because the eye retains an image it receives for a fraction of a second—about one-tenth of a second."

SAYS BRITISH CASH PAID FOR MEETING

NEW YORK, March 21.—Charges that Friday night's big "All American" mass meeting at Madison Square Garden was financed by British propagandists and that the American Legion was tricked in the affair were made yesterday at a meeting held in Lexington theatre by Friends of Freedom for India.

Capt. John F. McAroe of this city, one of the speakers in favor of the separation of India from Great Britain, made the accusation.

"District Attorney Swann will shortly be asked to investigate that meeting," he said, "and look into the source of its funds. I'm a member of the American Legion and proud of it, but I want to tell you there wasn't a single man on the committee in charge of that meeting who was in service."

"That committee was financed by British propaganda funds, and the American Legion was pulled into a trap. It did not see the trap until it was too late."

Felix flag of Ireland be placed in the color stands along with the emblems of England and France. That demand was too much for the committee, and it decided the best way out was to permit no flag other than our own."

Major Eugene F. Kinkaid of New Jersey paid his respects to "British stupidity," which, he said, had brought about the state of affairs now existing in Ireland and India.

New York collected $21,352,640 in inheritance taxes last year.

PALM SUNDAY AT ST. ANNE'S CHURCH

Palms were distributed to members of the congregation in St. Anne's church at the morning service yesterday. The usual ritual for morning prayer was used.

The sermon was preached by Very Rev. Henry B. Washburn, dean of the Episcopal Theological school in Cambridge. The address dealt with the methods used in training young men for the ministry in the school.

At the evening service a special musical program was given. It included violin solos by Mr. Bertha Knight Johnson, cornet solos by Arthur Heller, and singing by the vested choir of mixed voices. William Heller was the organist.

Rev. Appleton Grannis delivered a sermon at the evening service in which he spoke of the supreme kingship of Christ.

He compared the treatment which Jesus received from the priests of that time and the treatment accorded Washington and Lincoln. He said that even the disciples of Jesus did not understand him and hoped for good positions when he finally reached the head of his kingdom. He had great difficulty in making them understand that his kingdom was not of this earth and that therefore he did not control any political positions. Mr. Grannis called attention to the inevitableness of nature. How the sun rises and sets each day and how the tide ebbs and flows in spite of any attempts which man makes to stop it. Just as these are here to stay so is Jesus Christ here and so will he remain.

On Monday, Wednesday and Friday evenings this week services will be held at 7.45 o'clock and on Tuesday, Wednesday and Friday mornings communion services will be held at 9.30. Friday from 12 to 3 o'clock a tenebra service will be held. Next Sunday evening at 6 the regular Easter carol service will be given.

DISCUSS STRIKE ON SEA-GOING TOWBOATS

NEW YORK, March 21.—Representatives of the Association of Masters, Mates and Pilots left here today for Philadelphia to attend a conference at which plans will be discussed for a strike on sea-going towboats on the Atlantic and Gulf coasts, effective April 1.

William A. Maher, general manager of the association, said that the walk-out had been ordered because the Atlantic Towboat association had declined to renew the 1919 agreement, and had reduced wages $25 to $35 a month. He said about 150 towboats and 2400 men would be affected.

Largest Cotton Crop Since 1914

WASHINGTON, March 21.—The largest cotton crop since 1914 and the sixth largest in the history of the country was grown last year. Ginning statistics for the 1920-21 season announced today by the census bureau show 13,365,764 equivalent 500-pound bales for the 1920 crop. That is about 2,700,000 equivalent 500-pound bales less than the record crop of 1911 and is slightly smaller than the 1904 crop. The census bureau's figures of cotton actually ginned, which are accepted as the final production statistics show the crop to be 378,764 bales more than estimated by the department of agriculture last December in its final forecast of the year.

Order for Removal of Pothier

PROVIDENCE, R. I., March 21.—An order of removal from this jurisdiction to Tacoma, Wash., for Rolan R. Pothier, of Central Falls, R. I., alleged slayer of Major Alexander P. Cronkhite, at Camp Lewis, Wash., Oct. 25, 1918, was asked of the United States district court here within the next few days by United States District Attorney Cannon. Pothier on Saturday pleaded guilty to involuntary manslaughter and was held for the United States court for the western district of the state of Washington under $10,000 bail, in default of which he still is in jail.

Average Density of U. S. Population

WASHINGTON, March 21.—The average density of population throughout the United States, exclusive of outlying possessions was 35.5 persons per square mile of land area, in 1920, as against 30.9 in 1910. The census bureau announced today. The density in the individual states in 1920 ranged from 7-10 of one person per square mile in Nevada to 566.4 in Rhode Island. It exceeded 200 per square mile in five states, Rhode Island, with 566.4; Massachusetts 470.2; New Jersey 420; Connecticut 286.4 and New York 217.9. The density figures for other states include: Maine 25.7; New Hampshire 40.1; Vermont 38.6.

ARREST FORMER OFFICER SUCCESSFUL MISSION AT OF LOYAL COALITION ST. PATRICK'S CHURCH

BOSTON, March 21.—Randolph Wells, formerly vice-president and publicity agent of the Loyal Coalition, and Elizabeth Shepard Smith were booked at the City Hall police station last night, charged with a serious statutory offense. The couple were arrested in Worcester yesterday afternoon following a communication to the Worcester police authorities from this city.

When booked at the City Hall police station Smith gave his age as 53 years and his residence as the Parker House. The woman gave her age as 42 years and her residence as the Parker House. They were detained in the guardroom for about a half-hour until a bail commissioner and bondsman arrived in the company of Smith's lawyer, James Coughlin. They were released, as soon as the bail formalities had been arranged.

The arrest in Worcester was made on a lower court warrant, which was secured Saturday by Special Officer John Manning of the City Hall police station. He told reporters that he was accompanied to court by Smith's alleged wife, who is said to live in New York, and who, according to her statement as quoted by Manning, had not seen Smith since 1907.

She told the officer, he declared, that she has a family of seven grown children and that the man under arrest is the father of this family. She denied that there had been any divorce.

One of the most successful missions held in this city came to a close at St. Patrick's church yesterday afternoon when the concluding services of the week's mission for the men of the parish were held under the direction of the Dominican fathers. So large was the attendance that both the upper and lower church had to be used and every seat was taken. The exercises included the recitation of the rosary, a sermon on "Perseverance," renewal of baptismal vows, bestowal of the papal blessing and benediction.

At the 7 o'clock mass yesterday morning the number of men who received holy communion was estimated at between 1800 and 2000 and there were also large numbers at the communion rail Thursday, Friday and Saturday morning. The sermons throughout the mission were instructive and inspiring and the missionaries expressed their appreciation and gratification of the splendid results of their week's work here.

Worcester Man Offers Poor Big Opportunity

Mr. Charles A. Gammons of 6 West Street, Worcester, Shows His Faith in CINOT by the Following Statement—Also Tells of His Remarkable Recovery

The following statement of Mr. Gammons is backed up by the CINOT expert and he will offer the same as Mr. Gammons does, so the reader can see that CINOT is backed up not only by its users but by its makers. Mr. Gammons says:

"In a tin sheet iron worker, and for quite a few years I have suffered agonies from indigestion. I was full of gas and my stomach felt like it had a lump of lead in it, also a severe burning in my stomach clear up to my throat, and when I got through working at night I could hardly get home. I was so tired and weak, I could not digest anything that I ate. I have now taken two bottles of CINOT and I shall never tire of singing its praises. I can eat anything at all now and it does not distress me. I feel good and my friends ask me what I have been doing that I look so much better, and in conclusion I wish to say that I would not hesitate to pay ten dollars a bottle for CINOT if it cost that much, as it is more than worth it. And I will also say, if there is a person in Worcester that has the same sickness I had and can prove they have suffered like I did and are too poor to buy a bottle, I will buy it for them."

CINOT is a vegetable compound made from the pure juices and extracts of many different roots, herbs, barks and berries. It acts on the bowels and causes constipation, increases the appetite, induces sound, restful sleep, quiets the nerves, stimulates the kidneys to full, healthy action, thereby ridding the system of poisons which cause catarrh and rheumatism. CINOT rouses a sluggish liver to healthy action, thereby relieving headaches, giddy spells, biliousness, foul breath, bad taste in the mouth, shallow complexion, heartburn, and a general tonic and system builder it is unexcelled.

The CINOT expert has headquarters at Dows Drug Store.

Many Fail to Cast Ballots

which little, if any, effort was made to stir up interest.

Are Not Interested

"The result of the balloting apparently shows that a large portion of the members of the chamber are not greatly interested in the packing house project, one way or another," said Secretary-Manager George F. Wells this morning.

Although the opponents made the most noise, and conducted the most vigorous campaign to have the measure rejected, the proponents of the projects were by no means inactive. Some acrimony has been aroused as a result of the contest.

It has been claimed that, as one of the leaders of the objectors to the packing house is a member of the chamber, the opponents were given access to the membership rolls of the organization, and that a similar privilege was refused to them. The opponents, it is claimed, used this list to make a careful canvass of the membership and drag out every possible vote in the negative.

Another Objection

Friends of the plan to bring a packing house to Lowell also objected to even the small vote being considered as having any appreciable bearing on the situation. It is said that a few persons and corporations in this city hold direct control over a sufficient number of votes to account for nearly all of the ballots cast against the proposition and that efforts were directed toward capturing as many of these as possible.

In the case of one of the large mills of the city, for example, the corporation subscribes for 50 memberships. All of the fees for entrance into and continued membership in the chamber are paid by the company. It, however, has but one vote in its own name, and the other memberships are distributed as gifts among employees.

Claim Minority Rule

It is asserted that under these conditions it is possible for a small, well-organized and active body of men or women to practically dictate what the result of a referendum shall be.

Secretary-Manager George F. Wells said today that he did not believe that any of the holders of the memberships bought and paid for by big corporations were influenced to vote otherwise than as they thought best. It was denied that there was any probability of the Harvard plant again, and he said that the referendum was held to show that only a comparatively few persons could be found to vote against the measure, despite a strenuous campaign by interested parties, and that the fact that a vast majority of the members failed to take any part in the balloting reflects the opinion of a large part of the people of the city who are without a selfish interest in the matter and that they are independent of any small group of objectors to the coming of the plant.

Some strong criticism is being made of the chamber for embarking on the referendum at all. It is said that the purpose of the chamber should be to enlarge the business activities of the city and bring new industries into town, and it is being claimed that it has been ill for the past two weeks, has been drawn into a course of action contrary to this policy by a few members who had a special interest in keeping the plant out of the city.

Every Person in This Section Who Is Weak, Run Down, Sick or Nervous, To Try This Great Medicine at My Expense. Free Bottle Will Be Given to All Who Come Early Tuesday, to Dows' Drug Store.

ALL HAVE THE SAME CHANCE TO GET WELL AND BE STRONG

This is an invitation you can't afford to ignore. I'll tell you why. I'm going to give you a free bottle of medicine that will tone you up and put an end to all chances of indigestion, rheumatism, constipation, catarrh and kindred ills.

The medicine of which Henry Barnes said: "It is the only medicine that eased my stomach and stopped the pain," will wipe away stomach trouble and put strength and vitality into the blood.

A highly efficient stomach medicine made from roots, herbs, barks, berries and a few other good things for the nerves, blood, stomach, kidneys and bowels.

You may be starving your blood in the midst of plenty. It isn't how much you eat that counts, but it's how you digest the food you eat.

You cannot get steam out of water without fire; you can't get brain power, nerve force and red blood corpuscles out of food without digestion. Thousands lack sufficient vital force and don't know why.

They think they need a tonic, a vacation or a change of scenery, but they don't. It's old indigestion that's the matter with them, and six days of my CINOT will prove it.

They don't get the strength out of their food. It's like running through a mill with the rollers too wide apart; the corn goes through, but the mill doesn't grind.

Don't Think You Must Have a Pain To Have Indigestion

Lack of flesh, too much fat, pimples, blotches, fallow complexion, lack of nerve force, impoverished blood, sleeplessness, indigestion, backaches, dizziness, weak brain power, dizzy spells, spots floating before the eyes.

The CINOT expert has headquarters at Dows Drug Store.

may all be due to faulty digestion, process, either in the stomach or the bowels.

Take my CINOT with your other food for a week, and find out how your digestive organs are working. If the CINOT helps you greatly, gives you more force, strength and brain power, you may set it down that your liver and bowels were not doing their duty.

Only yesterday your head may have felt dull and heavy, you had the "blues," were cross, nervous or irritable, everything seemed to go wrong and you couldn't tell why.

It's ten to one it was old dyspepsia, slyly getting in his work, not enough to cause you pain, but just enough to dull your brain, rob you of your vitality, upset your liver and deplete your nerve force. Maybe you don't think so, but try a bottle of CINOT and see if it don't change "blues" to a bright, cherry red, make the old world laugh in a merry glee, and put new vigor and vim in your life again.

Lon Cox, the travelling salesman, had stomach trouble so bad he practically had to live on liquid foods. He couldn't even eat vegetables without suffering terrible pain. He took two bottles of CINOT and can now eat anything he wants without any distress whatever—sounds like a miracle! Well, we have Mr. Cox's own signed statement to that effect.

J. M. Burke, the N.Y. N.H. conductor, says he had rheumatism so bad he had to use a cane to get around at all. On his fourth bottle of CINOT he said: "I am now feeling fine. HAVE THROWN AWAY MY CANE." These are only two out of hundreds, yes, thousands.

Test This Medicine Free

Mr. Sufferer, have you ever heard of the wonderful medicine that talks, that really tells you itself what it can do?—that's CINOT. Five minutes after you take it the medicine begins to unfold its virtues, and it will, by actual demonstration, unfold to you more in regard to its merits in ten minutes than I could probably make you believe if I wrote you ten books as large as the dictionary.

"Words cannot tell how glad we are for CINOT," declares Mrs. Beazely. "The first bottle fixed me up," says W. W. Harnden. "I am a changed man now," states Rev. G. W. Pope.

You may know some of these people or know somebody who knows them. I'll send you their full addresses if you want them, so that you can find out about my CINOT and the wonders it has wrought.

Probably you are now thinking whether all this can be true—stop it. Come Tuesday, March 22, to Dows Drug Store and ask for the CINOT man; he will give you absolutely free a good-sized bottle of my CINOT. This offer is open to every man and woman in Lowell and vicinity. There are no ifs, ands or buts attached to it, except that you come early before the generous supply of free bottles has been used. You don't have to buy anything if you don't want to, all I ask is that you stop in and test this wonderful medicine and see for yourself what it can do for you. So please come as early as possible.

The CINOT expert has headquarters at Dows Drug Store to meet the local public and explain the merits of this remedy.

Four Believed Buried in Debris Following Explosion in Grain Elevator

CHICAGO, Mar. 21.—Wrecking crews today were clearing away the tons of debris scattered by an explosion Saturday night in the elevator of the Armour Grain Co., on the South Side, under which the bodies of four victims were believed to be buried. The two known dead were blown out of the structure by the blast, which it was believed was due to spontaneous combustion which ignited inflammable mud dust.

The grain loss was placed at about $1,000,000 by E. A. James, secretary of the company, who said that it was believed $3,000,000 worth of grain remaining in the concrete bins could be salvaged.

Police and officials of the company declared they placed little credence in a theory that the explosion might have been caused by a dissatisfied employee.

EXPENSES OF 227 CITIES EXCEED REVENUES

WASHINGTON, March 31.—Governmental costs, including interest and outlays for permanent improvements for the 227 cities of the country with a population of 20,000 or more, exceeded total revenues by $3,921,000 in the year 1919, according to statistics of municipal finances made public today by the census bureau. Deducting the item of permanent outlays, however, revenues which aggregated $1,224,172,000 or $35.32 per capita, exceeded governmental costs by $225,922,000.

Revenue receipts exceeded current governmental expenses and interest in all but four cities of the group, while in 17 cities revenues exceeded all expenditures, including permanent outlays. The total net indebtedness of the group was placed at $2,678,551,000, or $77.82 per capita, with that of New York City alone $1,009,309,000, amounting to almost three-fifths of the total.

Condon and Carl Meyer for the packers; Donald Lane and Theodore S. Brennan for the employees; and Hugh L. Kerwin, E. F. Marsh and Howell Davis, members of the conciliation division of the department of labor, who participated in the session in 1917 of the Alschuler agreement of 1917.

A BRIDGEPORT LADY SUFFERED FOR TEN YEARS

Stomach Trouble Never Let Up on Her For One Single Day Till She Found CINOT, the New Herbal Remedy

"For ten long years I have been a patient sufferer from stomach trouble, constipation and a few other things," declared Mrs. Hanton, of No. 276 Fairfield avenue, the well-known and highly respected lady of Bridgeport, in a signed statement for publication.

"I have spent many a dollar for medicine and doctor bills, seeking relief from gastritis, dyspepsia, indigestion and constipation. My stomach often became so swollen from gas that it felt like a rope tied around my body. No matter how careful I was about my food, it was the same; always that sourness, belching, choked-up feeling. My nerves became all unstrung and I never knew a good night's rest. Heavy, dragging pains in my back, over my kidneys, became almost unbearable. My liver was sluggish, tongue coated, spots danced before my eyes; my limbs ached and my general health was about broken down."

"I am 67 years old and had given up hope of ever being strong and well again. But I am, here today, praising CINOT for the grand, wonderful benefits it has given me. I am not like the same sickly, puny woman I was before, but feel good all over. All functions acting regularly; my food digests well, with no more gas or sour belching. The pains are gone from my back and limbs, and my liver is active again. Say anything you want to in the papers about CINOT for you will not be able to fully express my gratitude to this great remedy."

The well known CINOT expert has headquarters at Dows Drug Store, where he is meeting the public—Adv.

Counsel for the defendant charged Jelly with changing the stated value of the coins from $100 to $19 while on the stand, and said that there was not sufficient evidence to hold Walker. However, Judge Enright ordered him in bonds of $300 to appear before the grand jury in June. The case was continued on the same recognition to tomorrow, in order to allow the defendant to secure a bondsman.

Houghtaling, manager of a chain grocery store in South Boston today and ran away with $137 from the cash register and $110 from Houghtaling's pockets. Their hurried departure was witnessed by Patrolman Sawyer who commandeered an automobile and pursued, picking up a special officer on the way. Half a mile down the street they captured John Sheehan of Berlin, N. H., and John Payson, address not given, who surrendered without trouble. The money was recovered.

The outlook was for rain late today in the Middle Atlantic and New England states. Storm warnings were up for the Atlantic coast north of Delaware Breakwater.

Warm Weather Records Shattered

PORTLAND, Me., March 21.—Warm weather records for March, kept since the weather bureau was established here 50 years ago, were shattered today. The official thermometer registered 77.5 at noon. While this was half a degree under the highest temperature, recorded on March 20, 1903, the minimum was 57 compared with 33 and the average fully 10 degrees higher than 18 years ago, when it was 58 degrees. The 70 mark has been exceeded but three times in March in half a century. The other records were 71 on March 19, 1894, and 74 on March 25, 1920.

BURIED MEXICAN CITY

Remains of City of 100,000

Which Flourished 4000 Years Ago Uncovered

SAN JUAN DE TEOHUACAN, Mexico, March 21.—Prospecting for the habitations of a lost race in virtually the same manner as miners dig for gold, federal employees here have just started to uncover the remains of a city of at least 100,000 inhabitants which flourished 4,000 or more years ago. Here and there over the con- tinues of the buried city have been sunk shafts to the streets, houses and temples known to exist below the level of the mountain valley in which lies the little village of San Juan de Teotihuacan, the name of which means in the Aztec tongue, "city of the gods."

The Mexican government has appropriated funds for this work of excavation which is in charge of Manuel Gamio, director of anthropology of the department of agriculture. The government hopes eventually to make the spot one of the show places of Mexico. Looming over the area are the two pyramids, one to the sun and the other to the moon, which for centuries have defied the efforts of archeologists and historians to trace their origin. The pyramid to the moon is still untouched, retaining an appearance to the lay eye of a huge mound of irregular shape, overgrown with grass and rubbish.

Senior Gamio says the city now under excavation at one time covered an area of 15 square miles with a population of more than 100,000. Its buildings are unknown to history but, Sr. Gamio believes they were a portion of an Indian tribe which wandered into Mexico from the north and, finding the valley fruitful and the climate salubrious, decided to settle.

The presence of volcanic rock as one of the top strata covering the ruins indicates that one of the nearby mountains erupted and inundated the city with lava.

Entry to the grounds is made facing the "Temple to the Goddess of the Winds," which was discovered less than a year ago, when erosion uncovered well defined walls and decorations typically Indian and Egyptian in their conception. This temple has now been dug out and reconstructed on the exterior. The inside is reached at present through a series of subterranean passages. Inside, the visitor treads over massive stairs with ornate decorations of huge serpents with obsidian eyes and grotesque conceptions reminiscent of Egyptian art. The work of interior excavation and reconstruction is far from complete.

Between this temple and the pyramid to the sun is a stretch of one-quarter of a mile which is at intervals pierced by the shafts of the diggers and in some places by the uncovered remains of a house or public building with the paint still bright and the frescoes as intact as the day they were placed there several thousands of years ago.

Between the two pyramids is a well defined plaza, on one side of which a street has been uncovered known as the "Path of the Dead." Flanking the plaza are hundreds of mounds which Sr. Gamio assured the correspondent contained either houses or temples.

Immense stores of valuable archeological material have been taken from the various excavations. Human bones, terra cotta heads, obsidian knives, arrowheads, children's toys of clay, cooking utensils, incense burners and crude musical instruments form the bulk of the find and all are preserved in a museum which has just been erected on the grounds.

The two pyramids, however, are the dominant structures of the city. The pyramid to the sun measures 761x721 feet at the base and is 216 feet high narrowing to a level summit.

Unlike the pyramids of Egypt with its huge jutting blocks of stone forming an endless stairs to the top, the sun pyramid is built with a smooth surface in five distinct tiers. Ascent is made by steps built into the side and to the uninitiated the undertaking is almost perilous because of the steep incline with no supporting balustrades. It differs from its Egyptian counterparts also in the respect that it contains no interior passages or rooms.

The pyramid to the moon is smaller, with a base measuring about 511x25 feet. It rises 151 feet with a crowning platform about 19 feet square.

In connection with his supervision of the excavations, Sr. Gamio has been here to establish schools with special attention paid to manual training. Originally, the valley contained 200,000 Indians, but these had been reduced to 20,000 in colonial days and now number less than 8,000. They earn but a poor living when crops are good, and when there are failures starvation and widespread death ensue. Groups of Indians at pottery making, a new industry in the valley, were evidence that a portion at least of Sr. Gamio's program is being carried out.

KEEP LOOKING YOUNG

It's Easy—If You Know Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets

The secret of keeping young is to feel young—to do this you must watch your liver and bowels—there's no need of having a sallow complexion—dark rings under your eyes—pimples—a bilious look in your face—dull eyes with no sparkle. Your doctor will tell you ninety per cent of all sickness comes from inactive bowels and liver.

Dr. Edwards, a well-known physician in Ohio, perfected a vegetable compound mixed with olive oil to act on the liver and bowels, which he gave to his patients for years.

Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets, the substitute for calomel, are gentle in their action yet always effective. They bring about that natural buoyancy which all should enjoy by toning up the liver and clearing the system of impurities.

Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets are known by their olive color, 15c and 50c.

WALES IS LAND OF INDUSTRIAL ROMANCE

LONDON, March 21.—Renewed attention has just been called to the romantic story of the great industrial development in South Wales, a land of romance in industry, by the building of a new 7,000,000 pound "oil town" near Swansea with homes for a population of 1500 workers.

The site of the new enterprise for the refining of oil brought there from the Persian gulf is Swenwen, between Neath and Swansea where vast oil refineries have been constructed.

There within a boundary wall 15 miles in circumference a great oil company has built a new town including stores, canteens, a postoffice and in fact almost every adjunct for the comfort and convenience of the workers and their families who are to inhabit the place.

The undertaking is described as among the largest and most ambitious ever known even in South Wales where the great advances in industry have yielded more fortunes than in any other part of the United Kingdom.

The town sprang into existence as if by a magician's wand on an arid waste, lying in a hollow basin surrounded by small hills. It is about 400 acres in extent and about five miles from Swansea. Towering tanks, each capable of holding 1,000,000 gallons of oil now rear their heads above the village and at Swansea great docks and reservoirs have been constructed to receive the ships with their oil from the Persian fields and other oil-bearing regions of the near east. As received, the oil will be pumped through pipes from Swansea through the new refining town and after refinement will be returned over the same route to Swansea for world-wide distribution.

This inaugurates an industry in South Wales which it is predicted will add new wealth to that already prosperous region.

More than 300,000 women are employed in scientific and industrial pursuits in the United States.

PEOPLE FLED WHEN AIRPLANE LANDED

SAN JUAN DEL SUR, NICARAGUA,

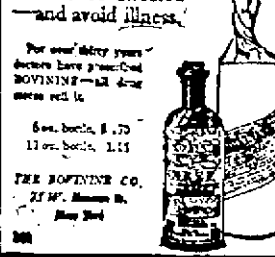

March 21.—There are even yet in remote parts of the world people who never even heard of an airplane. Some of these people live in the little Nicaraguan village of Gigante, where the naval plane NC-6 was forced down by a hurricane while on its flight from San Diego, Cal., to Panama along with about a dozen other planes in January.

They thought the NC-6 was a huge bird, an albatross, which had come to search for some unfortunate mariner who had offended it and they hid in the woods for several hours.

Near the little cove where the NC-6 came down are two ranches. After the Associated Press correspondent had found the missing NC-6 he visited one of these ranches and asked the women if they had seen the plane arrive. One of them replied:

"Mio Dios, I should think so. At the sight of the horrible thing skipping over the white caps, without flapping its wings, and splitting fire from both sides of its body and roaring like 20,000 bulls we all took to the timber where we remained for about four hours. We only came out when we saw a foreign gentleman passing near where we were hiding."

The women added that before the great war, when sailing ships used to visit the Nicaraguan coast to load mahogany and cedar, the captains had told them of a wonderful bird called albatross that was an inhabitant of the southern seas and they supposed this bird had come after some offending sailor.

HISTORY OF PRICES REPEATS

The accompanying chart explodes the generally accepted idea that "prices" may drop but they never go back to what they were.

This chart was prepared by the Federal Reserve bank of New York, from government statistics. It shows, by years since 1825, the ebb and flow of prices of the 71 commodities of common use, expressed in actual money values.

For instance, the chart shows that what cost $1.25 in 1825 could be bought for 70 cents in 1895 and about $1.50 in January, 1921.

The chart shows that actual prices averaged exactly the same in 1849, 1878 and 1913. Prices in 1919 were the same as in 1841. In 1919 prices averaged lower than in any previous year back to 1825, earliest record available, barring temporary price slumps due to panics, as in 1873.

Observe that prices declined steadily from 1861, reached bottom in 1896, then rose steadily until May, 1920, and now are on the downward again.

The reason one generation can't understand the next is largely due to changing prices—the fluctuating buying power of the dollar.

Father observes son spending $75 a week and shakes his head. He remembers something about keeping a family on $75 a month in the old days.

Father forgets that in the old days he didn't pay $50 or more a month for rent, or $50 for a fair suit of clothes, or that the average tax levy in 1921 is as big as the yearly cash income of Jonas, the hired man on the farm, in the old days.

In this generation, son may think father's complaints are those of an old-fashioned tightwad. Several generations hence, when the tables are turned and prices are low, great-grandson will run across a 1920 expense account in an old trunk in the attic and will lament that the family would be as rich as chocolate cake if great-grandpapa had saved his enormous income in 1920.

CHILMSFORD NEWS

Cowardly Attempt to Burn Schoolhouse—Damage to Building and Contents Estimated at $500

A dastardly attempt to burn the South How school house in Chilmersford was frustrated late Saturday afternoon by a passerby who saw smoke coming from the building and gave the alarm. Men living nearby succeeded in holding the fire in check until the arrival of the fire-department.

The fire started in the northeast corner of the building and had worked its way through the roof when the firemen arrived. The damage to the building was estimated at about $400 and an equal amount to books and supplies. The school, a one-room building, had been thoroughly ransacked, desks broken and many books, including records, with the exception of the register, had been crowded into the stove and burned.

The pupils' desks had been emptied of their contents and with quantities of paper had been piled in a corner of the room, an oil desk placed on top and the pile evidently touched off. But for the timely discovery, the building would have been destroyed. An investigation was immediately started by the authorities and every effort will be made to discover and punish the offenders. Reports will be completed so that the regular sessions can be resumed by March 25.

Get this free tube. Its use will be a revelation. To you and yours the results will open a new era in teeth cleaning. Learn now what they mean to you.

with the 10-Day Tube tells the reasons for them.

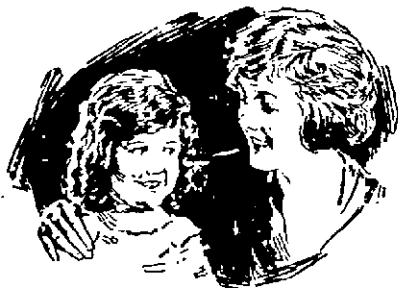

One ingredient is pepsin. Another multiplies the starch digestant in the saliva to digest starch deposits that cling. Each application also multiplies the alkalinity of the saliva—to neutralize the acids which cause tooth decay.

Two factors directly attack the film. One keeps the teeth so highly polished that film cannot easily adhere.

Day by day we fight the film and all its ill effects. You see the results in whiter teeth. You feel them in cleaner teeth. But the great results are such protection as teeth never had before.

You owe yourself a knowledge of these facts. Old ways of brushing have proved sadly inadequate. Nearly everybody at some time suffers troubles caused by film.

Now science knows how to combat film, and in ten days you can know. Never again will you trust the old ways when you know the new.

Teeth will glisten when the film-coat goes

Get this free tube and watch it. Note how clean the teeth feel after using. Mark the absence of the slimy film. See how teeth whiten as the film-coat disappears.

TIPS FROM SISTER MARY'S KITCHEN

Seldom a house can do pimentos may be used at the time it is opened. If one pepper is needed in a dish, four or five are left to spoil if not properly taken care of.

Put pimentos in a bowl in a weak vinegar. Cover with a saucer and set in a cool place. The pimentos will keep for two or three weeks and the flavor will not be injured.

A few snips of pimento add much to many otherwise uninteresting dishes.

Menu for Tomorrow

Breakfast—Stewed fish, cooked cereal, top milk, buttered toast, coffee.

Luncheon—Carrots in cream sauce, nut bread and butter, jelly, tea.

Dinner—Round steak, croquettes, mashed potatoes, scalloped cabbage, apple pie, coffee.

My Own Recipes

After the carrots and white sauce are put together turn the whole into a buttered baking dish, cover with buttered crumbs and brown in a hot oven. Of course, it's the same old creamed carrots, but it is served in a different way and has a little different taste, due to cooking the carrots in the white sauce for a few minutes.

Stewed Figs

Two pounds dried figs, 1 lemon, 1/2 cup sugar, 1/2 teaspoon salt.

Wash figs very carefully. When the water is clear put in cold water to cover and let stand over night. Add more water in the morning and cook slowly for about three hours. When tender add sugar and pour into a crock to cool. Add lemon juice and grated rind.

Round Steak Croquettes

Three-fourths pound round steak, 1/4 cup dried bread crumbs, 1 teaspoon salt, 1/2 teaspoon pepper, 1/2 teaspoon minced onion, milk.

Have the steak ground, using whatever fat there is on the meat. Mix ground meat, bread crumbs and seasoning thoroughly. Add enough milk to make quite moist. Form into flat cakes, roll in flour and cook in about a desartspoonful of fat in a hot frying pan. The cakes should be made as flat as possible, for they shrink and thicken up during the cooking. The meat should be well done all the way through the cakes.

This new way to beautiful teeth

Your druggist today has a new way of teeth cleaning. And a ten-day tube is free.

Millions of people now employ it. Leading dentists everywhere advise it. You would never go without it if you knew.

Go ask for that free tube. There are few things more important than well-protected teeth.

Remove the film-coat

You brush teeth now, but you leave much of the film. A viscous film clings to the teeth, enters crevices and stays. The ordinary tooth paste does not end it. So teeth too often discolor and decay.

Dentists now know that the reason lies in film. That causes most tooth troubles. And, until one ends it, brushing fails to save the teeth.

It is the film-coat that discolors, not the teeth. Film is the basis of tartar. It holds food substance which ferments and forms acid. It holds the acid in contact with the teeth to cause decay.

Millions of germs breed in it. They, with tartar, are the chief cause of pyorrhea. And pyorrhea wrecks countless lives today.

An alarming situation

Tooth troubles have been constantly increasing. Very few people escape them. So dental science has in late years studied to combat that film.

Now we know how. The methods have been proved by careful clinical tests, made under able authorities. Now millions of people employ them, largely by dental advice. A new era in teeth cleaning is fast spreading the world over.

These new methods are combined in a dentifrice called Pepsodent. A 10-Day Tube is given to everyone who asks. Now all who will may quickly know that film can be combated.

24 KILLINGS OVER WEEK END IN IRELAND

DUBLIN, March 21. (By A. P.)—A "black week-end" has just been experienced by the crown forces in Ireland, according to official reports. Eleven members of the government forces were killed and 11 wounded in various ambushes, while it is believed that 12 of their assailants were killed and 10 wounded.

The reports do not take into account isolated murders and outrages which are continually reported.

Three bombs were thrown at a military lorry here last night. Two bombs exploded, killing two soldiers and wounding six others, including an officer. The remaining soldiers fired, wounding three of the attacking party.

Capt. Atkinson, an Ulster harrier who acted as judge in a number of recent Dublin courts-martial, was attacked at his home Saturday night by three armed men. He was wounded.

John Sheehan, a former attendant at the Cork Lunatic Asylum, was shot dead at Cork last night. He had been suspected of giving information last December, on the occasion of the arrest of a girl wearing a red sash, concerning a republican arsenal. This was the second time Sheehan had been attacked. He received several wounds when the first attempt was made.

From Monday night on the curfew has been fixed from 8 o'clock at night until 6 o'clock in the morning.

The advancement of the curfew hour, which was due to yesterday's ambush, affects the whole of the Dublin area, except the coast townships.

The ambush of crown forces near Kinsale, County Cork, Saturday, occurred when reinforcements were proceeding to seek a military officer and a police sergeant who were missing as a result of a previous ambush. It was learned yesterday.

The missing officer has been recovered, but the body of the sergeant has been found near Dungarvan, blindfolded and riddled with bullets. A card pinned to his breast was inscribed "Executed."

Crowds yesterday gazed curiously at a man chained to the railing of the prison in Marlborough street here, but no one tried to free him until the police came. It was said he had been chained to the railing because he worked during the executions of six men in Mountjoy prison on Mar. 14 in disobedience to the call for a cessation of labor.

The archbishop of Tuam in a letter to the parish priest of Clifden, condemning the shooting of policemen there as a reprisal of the Mountjoy executions and the failure to obey his call for a cessation of executions by the republican forces, says: "I must give my people moral guidance, even if corrupt politicians turn gospel teachings to bad ends."

The archbishop repeats his appeal for a truce and urges the government, as the stronger side, to call a truce and initiate peace negotiations.

GEN. WRANGEL APPEALS TO MANY NATIONS

CONSTANTINOPLE, March 21.—(By Associated Press)—Appeals are being made to many nations by General Wrangel, head of the South Russian government, who was driven from Crimea by the Bolsheviks late last year, to come to the aid of the anti-Bolshevik forces. He still believes there is a chance to defeat the soviet government and drive Lenin and Trotsky from power in Moscow.

"Bolshevism is dying, and this is an ill-chosen moment to disband my troops," he said today in commenting upon the French withdrawal of aid from his forces and the suggestion that his soldiers be repatriated to Russia. "France cannot bear the burden alone, and I am appealing to all nations for help. I cannot accept either the alternative of sending my men to Brazil, where they are professed manual labor, but no land or of returning them to Russia, where the spirit of vengeance is so strong that they would be massacred."

Many of Gen. Wrangel's officers are joining the French Foreign Legion.

FRATERNAL NEWS

The regular meeting of the General Guiney council was held in the Guild hall, West Sixth street Sunday afternoon at 3.30. President Mullin was in the chair. The entertainment committee reported having secured several speakers for the coming meetings also having secured an entertainment for next Sunday's meeting. The president, Mr. James Mullin, Mr. John Plenary, Mr. Thomas F. Delehanty and Mr. Herbert Kenyon were appointed a committee to stimulate further interest in the council. This council plans to make a strenuous campaign for membership in Centralville during the next two or three weeks. These meetings are open to men and women.

Central Council, A. O. H.

The regular monthly meeting of the Central Council, A. O. H., was held Sunday in A. O. H. hall with John Talty, president of Division 11, presiding. Business of a routine nature was transacted and arrangements were made to attend the Middlesex county convention which will take place next Sunday in Waltham, when delegates to the national convention, which will be held in Detroit, will be elected. The local council voted to endorse Patrick W. Moran for one of the delegates. Mr. Moran has been a very ardent worker in the A. O. H. for many years. He has attended many state and national conventions, but never as a delegate. The council will hold another meeting on Friday evening to complete arrangements for the trip over the road and the final drive to elect their candidate.

CIGAR MAKERS LOSE

Nearly 10,000 Go Back Into Open Shops

TAMPA, Fla., March 21.—On a strict money shop basis the cigar strike, which has been in force 10 months and which caused a loss in actual money to strikers of over $12,000,000 and $2,000,000 to the government, has been settled and nearly all of the ten thousand workmen are back at their benches.

The vote taken by advisory board stood two to one in favor of returning to work on open shop basis.

Under normal conditions the payroll of the industry is about $300,000 per week.

The strike was called April 14 last year following the refusal of the Cigar Manufacturers' association to employ no one but members of the International Association of Cigar Makers or their affiliated bodies.

Ten thousand cigar makers were under the control of the joint advisory board that issued the strike order. Several conciliations from the department of labor were sent here but to no avail, neither side seeming to display any desire to meet with the other.

3000 Go Back

In August the manufacturers agreed to open their shops on an open shop basis and about three thousand men returned to work.

Money for the strike poured in from all parts of the United States and Cuba and strikers were paid on the average of four dollars per week.

Finally, however, strike funds became low and the rank and file began a clamor for a settlement which resulted in the international union advising the local leaders to submit to a referendum. This resulted in the decision of the men to return.

The question of wages was never brought up by the strikers.

MATRIMONIAL

A pretty wedding took place at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Linson Herbert DeVoe in Summer street, Chelmsford Centre, Saturday afternoon at 4 o'clock, when their daughter, Gladys, was united in marriage with Mr. Newell Victor Bartlett of South Lynnfield, Mass. Rev. C. E. Fisher, D.D., pastor of the First Universalist church, officiated and the double ring ceremony was used. A gathering which included the immediate family and a few intimate friends was present. The bride was escorted in gray Canton crepe and carried a bouquet of roses and orchids. She was attended by Miss Alice R. Dymond of Lowell as bridesmaid, who was escorted in bisque Canton crepe and carried sweet peas. Mr. Bartlett, who is a son of Mrs. Samuel F. Guilford of Lynnfield, was attended by Mr. William R. Macdonald as best man. An informal reception followed the ceremony, with a luncheon served by Caterer A. Smith of Lynn. The home was attractively decorated with cut flowers and greenery, the dining table having a large centerpiece of red carnations and ferns. Mr. and Mrs. Bartlett left for a wedding trip, after which they will make their home for the present at their summer place in South Lynnfield.

He also announced that he hoped the branch would double its membership by May 30, when the charter for new members under the present drive will close. Remarks were made by Brother O'Connor, Macdonald, Nevins, Costello, M. Mitchell and Frain. Six new members were admitted and a large number of applications received. It was reported that the ladies' branch is meeting with great prosperity and having a rapid increase in membership.

DEDHAM MAN KNOCKED SENSELESS BY THUGS

DEDHAM, March 21.—For just about one-tenth part of a second last night, John H. Johnston, aged 23, formerly of Co. I, 104th Infantry, 26th Division, thought he was back in France, and that an "SS" had bounced off his head. When he came to he was in a hospital, and the illusion was complete.

Johnston is employed in Gilbert's restaurant, 355 Washington street. Last evening about 7.45 he swept out the place and carried the sweepings in a dustpan to throw them out the back door. He opened the door, but did not take any further interest in current events for more than half an hour. Somebody crowned him with a blunt and heavy instrument.

At 120 Louis A. Maier of Westwood entered the restaurant. He waited for a moment for someone to appear and take his order; no one did. Then Maier heard groans. He investigated, and in the back room found Johnston, gagged with a towel which was knotted at the back of his head, and so trussed up he could not have moved hand or foot even if he had been conscious. A broomstick had been thrust under his knees and his hands drawn forward and tied in front of him.

Did Not Know What Hit Him

Johnston's head was resting partly in a garbage pail. Maier untied the man and telephoned to the police station, which is just around the corner of High street. Officers Warren, Toity, Wilfred Newman and William Fitzhenry answered the call and rushed Johnston to the Dedham Emergency hospital. Dr. Hollis G. Bacheider worked on the senseless man for nearly half an hour before he began to recover.

When his head cleared, Johnston declared he did not know what had hit him. All he knew was that he opened the door and something cracked down on his head. He did not see the person who struck the blow and has no idea of his identity.

In the meantime Mr. Gilbert heard of the attack on his employee. Going to the restaurant, Gilbert inspected the cash register and found that $25 in bills had vanished, although nearly $10 in change had been left in the drawer. Quite a number of dimes were scattered on the floor.

CABINET ROW LOOMS

Federal Job Seekers Have to See Attorney General Daugherty

WASHINGTON, March 21.—The old order changeth, a prominent Senator declared yesterday in discussing what promises to develop into more than a mere row of words in President Harding's cabinet as a direct result of the distribution of several thousand patronage jobs won with the election last November.

Leading republican politicians, both in congress and outside, are deeply concerned with the new tangle because the president already has announced several senators by whom rough shod over their recommendations in favor of appointments in favor of some one recommended by political friends or Attorney General Daugherty.

As in the case of the antagonism of the senators, Attorney General Daugherty is the central figure in the threatened development of a row in the cabinet. The other figure in the dispute is Postmaster General Will Hays, ex-chairman of the republican national committee, and the man credited with making the success of the republican party at the polls.

The statement that "the old order changeth" was made yesterday because not only has the attorney general been given or usurped the post of "political director" of the administration, rather than the postmaster general, but is doing most of the dictating regarding appointments.

This is true, not only regarding appointments to judicial patronage jobs in Washington, and throughout the country, but also regarding the appointment of postmasters and others who rightfully come under other departmental heads.

To date President Harding has shown but little regard for the feelings of any of the influential republican or democratic senators where their recommendations conflicted with those made by Daugherty and suggestions by the attorney general have been followed in all cases unless the president had some personal friend in view.

The extent to which this is true is shown by the fact that any one coming to Washington looking for a job is directed by his senator, or whoever he asks for information, to "Go to see Daugherty." The direction is given regardless of whether it is a big postmaster job or some other big job that rightfully belongs to agriculture, interior, labor, commerce or the postoffice. In every instance it is "See Daugherty."

The result is that, despite the fact that comparatively few of the thousands of patronage jobs that are at the disposal of the president have so far been filled, one finds but few jobseekers waiting to see any of the departmental heads, except the attorney general.

Mr. Daugherty's waiting room is crowded all day long.

Whether or not the attitude taken toward Postmaster General Hays is the first step in the elimination of that efficiency campaigner, the president has given no intimation, but close political observers are of the opinion that it is.

"Gentleman," heretofore, barred from the French vocabulary because of its foreign origin, is now good French.

JAMES F. MISKELLA DEAD

Was Prominent in Political and Business Life of the City.

After an illness of nearly a year, James F. Miskella, well known in the business and political life of this city, passed away yesterday at his home, 55 Hanks street.

Three months ago his illness assumed a serious aspect, and since then he failed steadily until the end came despite the efforts of medical skill and the devoted attention of his mother and sister.

Deceased was born in Manchester, N. H., 47 years ago, but came to Lowell when a mere boy, was educated in the public schools and Boston University, from which he graduated in 1907. For many years he was a salesman in the Lowell One Price Clothing store, now Macartney's, and afterwards conducted a gent's furnishing store on Central street until his illness came on. A resident of old ward three in his early days, he entered politics and served three years in the old common council and four in the board of aldermen, during three of which he was chairman. During his incumbency as chairman he served for a time as acting mayor in the absence of Mayor Charles E. Howe, and it fell to his lot to have charge at the time of the South Lowell explosion. He promptly called out the militia and handled the situation in a manner that brought him the praise of the public in general. He had been a candidate for the municipal council under the present charter but was defeated by a narrow margin. He was identified with several fraternal orders including the Knights of Columbus, Division 11, A.O.U., Fraternal Order of Eagles, the Y.M.C.A., the Loyal Order of Moose and the Burke Temperance Institute during its entire existence. He was a man of upright character, honorable in all his dealings and the friend of every good cause. He is survived by his mother, Mrs. Ellen Miskella and three sisters, Ann, Catherine and Elizabeth. His family has the sympathy of a wide circle of friends in their bereavement.

DEATHS

KIMBALL—Following a long illness, Mrs. Margaret J. Kimball died yesterday at her home, 392 Chelmsford street, aged 56 years. She was born in Nova Scotia, but had lived for many years in Danville, N. H., coming to this city about a year ago. Besides her husband, W. Porter Kimball, she is survived by five sons, Charles, Howard, Willis, Ray and Albert; three daughters, Mrs. John Waters of Concord, N. H., Mrs. Harry Campbell of New York city and Miss Hazel Dymant of Lowell; three sisters, Mrs. L. W. SPRING COLDS ATTACK THOSE WHO ARE WEAK AND RUN DOWN
Every-Day Danger Threatens Everybody Whose Resisting Power Is Low

People who have become weak and run-down during the winter either from overwork or following grip, or other serious illness are in special danger during the trying days of early spring. The weakened system is wide open to attacks of disease and new resisting power must be built up without delay.

For this purpose no better tonic food medicine can be used than Father John's Medicine, because the pure, nourishing elements of which it is made rebuild health and strength. A doctor's prescription in use more than sixty-five years, Father John's Medicine is guaranteed free from alcohol or any dangerous drugs. The wholesome, strength-building food which it contains is easily taken up by the system and it gives the very resisting power so greatly needed at this time.

"GAT THE GIRAFFE"

WHO IS THE NEAREST ASKED NANCY

"Well," nodded Flippety-Flap with a satisfied smile. "There's two of 'em back, three you might say, Squawk, the elephant, Mr. Kangaroo and little Kicky Kang, hey son, all glad to get back to the circus, too, I hope they've learned a lesson, and the next time the gnomes let them out, they won't go."

"Who is next?" asked Nancy, eager to be off after more of the last circus animals.

Flippety-Flap held up an enormous shoe, on the sole of which he kept his reminders. "Who is it, Nick?" said he.

"Gyr, the Giraffe," read Nick.

"Who?" asked Flippety-Flap. "He'll be some bird to catch."

"Why?" asked Nancy. "Didn't he like the circus?"

"Yes," answered Flippety-Flap, "but he likes mimosas trees better. Loves 'em like a bear does honey. I know exactly what he did when he got loose. Sniffed around to see which direction

LIVED 26 HOURS WITH HIS HEART EXPOSED

NEW ORLEANS, March 21.—Physicians at a New Orleans hospital yesterday decided to furnish a complete record for medical journals of the case of Ben Hoelzel, aged 50, who died Saturday after living 26 hours with his heart exposed to the eyes of hospital surgeons.

While working in a coffee grinding plant Friday, Hoelzel's left sleeve was caught in a machine. His arm was mangled and a piece of flesh, the size of a man's head, was torn from his breast, leaving his heart exposed, the ribs directly over that organ also being torn away.

The fact that the injured man lived 26 hours after the accident is said by physicians observing the case to be most remarkable.

SPRING AILMENTS

Impure Blood, Humors,—Relief in a Good Medicine.

Spring ailments are due to impure, thin, devitalized blood. Among them are pimples, boils, other eruptions, catarrh, rheumatism, loss of appetite, that tired feeling, nervousness and "all run-down" conditions.

Hood's Sarsaparilla combines the roots, barks, herbs, berries and other medicinals that have been found in many years of intelligent observation to be most effective in the treatment of these ailments.

Successful physicians prescribe the same ingredients for diseases of the blood, stomach, liver and kidneys, and in cases where alternative and tonic effects are needed.

Hood's Sarsaparilla is the spring medicine that purifies, enriches and revitalizes your blood, increasing power of resistance to disease.

For a laxative take Hood's Pills.

HUNDREDS SHE SPENT SIMPLY THROWN AWAY

Lowell Woman Says Her Troubles Made Life Miserable for 20 Years—Tanlac Restores Her Health

"It seems almost unbelievable, but it's true, Tanlac brought me relief from stomach trouble that had made my life miserable for twenty years," was the remarkable statement of Mrs. A. Mulken, of 12 Hatchelder place, Lowell. She further said:

"I got to where I ate hardly enough to keep a bird alive, as I dreaded the agony I knew would come if I ate a real meal. I had frequent suffocating spells, when I could hardly get my breath. Sometimes these spells came on when I was in bed and I would have to get up and sit in a chair for hours.

I felt miserable in the mornings, so tired and worn out I really felt worse than when I went to bed.

"I tried everything under the shining sun I ever heard of trying to get relief, but nothing reached my case. I spent hundreds of dollars on treatments and medicines of one kind and another, but it was just as much money thrown away. I hadn't been taking Tanlac long before I realized it was entirely different from the others, as different as day is from night.

"It has not only given me an appetite and a perfect digestion, but it has made me feel the way I have wished to feel for many a year. It is a wonderful medicine that ought to be in every home. It certainly will always be in mine."

Tanlac is sold in Lowell by Green's Drug Store, under the personal direction of a special Tanlac representative, by Wright Drug Co., Billerica, Mass., Snow's Pharmacy, Concord, Mass., and by the leading druggist in every town.—Adv.

STORM STATE HOUSE

Motorists to Protest Further Increase in Fees

(Special to The Sun.)

STATE HOUSE, Boston, March 21.—In numbers second only to those which attended the automobile show last week, Massachusetts motorists are expected to storm the state house tomorrow morning to voice their protest against a further increase in fees for registration.

The Gardner auditorium, seating nearly 1000 persons, has been secured for the hearing, which will begin at 10.30 before the joint committee on ways and means. Present indications are that it will prove utterly inadequate.

The suggestion for an increase in fees comes from the motor vehicle registry in the department of public works. It recommends the following schedule:

PLEASURE CARS	Power	Present	Proposed
Up to 30 (planetary transmission)	.....	$15	$20
Up to 30 (gear transmission)	.....	20	25
31 to 40	.....	30	35
41 and over	.....	40	45
51 and over	.....	50	55

Capacity in tons

Under 1	.....	20	25
1 to 2	.....	25	30
2 to 3	.....	30	35
3 to 4	.....	40	45
4 to 5	.....	50	55
5 and over	.....	60	65

It will be noted that in the case of pleasure cars there is proposed an increase of one hundred per cent. for every car except the Ford. Obviously this distinction, which has no justification from the standpoint of road wear, was intended to decrease the opposition to the proposed advances. It may have had some effect in that direction, but nevertheless Ford owners, instead of being happy over the distinction given them, are up in arms against even a 50 per cent. increase.

WAGES EXCEED RECEIPTS FROM SALE OF COAL

CARDIFF, March 21.—Wages of miners in South Wales exceeds receipts from sale of coal, according to a statement issued by Finley Gibson, secretary of the South Wales Coal Owners' association.

The total proceeds on all coal disposed of was 5,719,240 pounds, the total cost 5,655,596 pounds, leaving a loss at the pits of 1,959,666 pounds, while the average loss per ton was 13s 7d.

BUILDING BOOM PROSPECTS POOR

State Department Report

Discloses Continuation of Marked Reductions

Only Thirteen Out of Thirty Cities Show Increase in Building Activities

Department Report Notes

General Improvement in the Textile Industry

(Special to The Sun)

STATE HOUSE, Boston, March 21.—Marked reductions continue to feature the reports on building operations which the state department of labor and industries collects each month from the various cities of the commonwealth.

For the month of February, out of the thirty cities reporting to the department, thirteen showed increases in building activity and seventeen showed decreases.

Boston, however, is included in the group of thirteen, and with its increase of almost $1,000,000 in building operations, as indicated by permits applied for, shows a net increase of approximately $750,000 over the month of January.

Outside of Boston, however, the permits applied for in February indicated building operations amounting to only $1,131,166, as compared with $3,641,151 for January, $3,295,263 for February of last year, and $3,365,502 for January of last year.

Figures for some of the leading cities follow:—

	February 1921	January 1921
Boston	$3,969,300	$1,131,166
Chicago	17,650	5,800
Fall River	5,425	20,541
Holyoke	2,700	24,450
Lowell	13,377	55,000
Lawrence	53,500	36,750
Lynn	35,800	36,212
New Bedford	115,700	1,851,766
Northampton	6,125	4,500
Pittsfield	17,800	2,403
Springfield	113,790	150,753
Waltham	8,900	22,750
Worcester	256,562	334,905

As to industrial conditions generally, the department says the reports which it has at hand indicate an improvement in the textile industry, especially with reference to the manufacture of woolen goods, although it is felt that output of the mills is as yet far from normal.

No great improvement has been noted in the boot and shoe industry, only those factories which have orders on hand being operated to any great extent. Conditions in the metal and machinery trades have undergone but little change, and a few instances have been noted of further curtailments. Business in general has not improved as rapidly as was hoped for, but con-

HAD NERVOUS BREAKDOWN

Mrs. Ireland Permits us to Publish this Letter for the Benefit of Others Who are in Her Condition

Warsaw, Missouri.—"For five years I was weak, nervous and in a run-down condition. Then I had a nervous breakdown and doctors said I would never be well again. After I took seven bottles of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound I was healthier, stronger, and felt better than I ever did in my life before. I can't praise the Compound enough and will recommend it to all women. You may publish this letter if you think it will help others."—Mrs. FLOYD IRELAND, R. R. 1, Warsaw, Missouri.

Nervous women are both ailing and wretched, and with a nervous breakdown all joy goes out of a woman's life. It is said that the ill peculiar to women act on the nerves like a firebrand.

Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound is so successful in overcoming such conditions, a large number of American women who were once great sufferers from nerve troubles owe their present health and comfort to Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound.

THE LEAGUE OF CATHOLIC WOMEN

Associate Hall Crowded at
League Meeting Held
Yesterday Afternoon

Address by Mary Boyle
O'Reilly — Oratorio by
League Choral Club

The League of Catholic Women held one of the most successful meetings of its career yesterday afternoon in Associate hall and so appreciative were the members of the program which had been outlined for them that they filled every seat on both the floor and in the balcony and scores were forced to stand.

There was a dual attraction to the affair: First, the appearance of Miss Mary Boyle O'Reilly, who gave a stimulating talk on "We Women Now," and second, an oratorio by the league choral club with no less a difficult composition than Rossini's "Stabat Mater" as the undertaking.

The orchestra was given by the 50 members of the club under the direction of Mrs. John T. Donohue with all the confidence and grace of professionals and the league orchestra under the direction of Miss Marie J. C. O'Donnell helped materially in making the affair a success. The soloists were Mrs. Joseph W. Green, William Cookin and Herbert Proctor Lawrence and a quartet consisting of Miss Teresa Slattery, Mrs. Nano Gallagher Leahy, John McMahon and J. Brunelle sang their part of the oratorio with effective skill. Although the club had been training for the undertaking but a short time, it gave a most enjoyable presentation and the chorus numbers seemed to indicate a much larger group of singers than actually appeared.

Miss O'Reilly's Address

Miss O'Reilly was introduced by Miss Alice T. Lee, president of the league, and after expressing her pleasure at an opportunity to address Lowell Catholic women, told of the new duties and responsibilities which have come upon women since the close of the war and the advent of suffrage. She said that the three outstanding results of the war were the rise of women in importance and responsibility, the fall of autocracies, "whether they call themselves kings or tortois," and the recognition of Americanism and American ideals.

Illustrating the rise in importance of women, she told of the precautions which the English government had taken at a time when there were rumors of a landing of German troops on the English coast. All along the coast a drill had been established so that when a siren sounded the women in charge of each farmhouse brought their children and valuables together, hitched a farm wagon and made for a concentration camp. Miss O'Reilly had the privilege of seeing one of these drills and she said that it was admirable to see how coolly and ably these women took full charge of the undertaking. "Do you think we are going to say, 'Yes, my dear, have it your way,' after women have demonstrated such courage as that?" she asked.

Undoing Work of War

Miss O'Reilly said that women disclaimed all responsibility for the world war because they were not empowered with citizenship at the time and that one of the first duties of women in their new world is to help undo the work of the mad years between 1914 and 1918. "In the first month of our citizenship," she said, "we saved the country from a hundred years' war by defeating the League of Nations."

The speaker said that all the leading generals in France were Catholics and that if Foch had been given his high command sooner, the war might have ended in 1915.

She said that women were nervously stronger than men and that they must show their appreciation that it was by the efforts of men that women were released from the terrible, degrading, Prussianism, she said, "as soon as feminism came into the world."

She said that the world had failed to appreciate America's humane side before the war, because we had never had an opportunity to show it. We were looked upon merely as a prosperous nation and had not shown our warm hearts and our desire to help the suffering.

She pleaded for an elimination of hatred in the reconstruction period and said that many of the atrocities attributed to the Germans were manufactured in Paris and London and that Lord Northcliffe was one of the chief manufacturers. Miss O'Reilly spoke feelingly of Cardinal Mercier and other Catholic heroes of the war.

When she met Premier Asquith in London and he asked her to describe what the Germans had done in Belgium, she said she told him that they had done nothing worse than England had done in her colonies.

look after the rights of small nations when we entered the war. She looked for good results from the appointment of George Harvey as ambassador to England and in the concluding part of her lecture denounced the activities and policies of Lloyd George, Sir David Carson, Winston Churchill, King George and other English leaders. She said that Lloyd George was the Lucifer of modern politics and that he had lost his soul after 1914.

Following Miss O'Reilly's lecture the Mandolin club, under the direction of Joseph A. Handley, played a medley of Irish airs, complimentary to the speaker. Miss Lee made a number of announcements concerning the various activities of the various league committees and said that since the last meeting, three members, Margaret McLaughlin, Jennie Watson and Rose Heath, had passed away. Rev. Joseph A. Curtin, spiritual director, opened the meeting with a prayer.

Boy Murdered in Littleton

Their inquiries, coupled with the finding of the unconscious Planchet, who later died in the Deaconess hospital, Concord, charges of first degree murder were lodged against the self-confessed slayer. In the course of his story, told to the police authorities, Drily asserted that Planchet had chased his mother into the woods the day previous, after having threatened her with a hammer. This may have proved the immediate cause of the crime, especially since had blood is said to have existed between the two male members of the household for a considerable length of time. Mrs. Drily, however, made emphatic denial of the hammer incident when questioned by the authorities.

Died in Hospital

When Chief of Police Reed visited the Drily home, after having taken the alleged murderer into custody, Planchet was found lying on a cot in the living room, with a huge cut across the top of his head and partly down his face. Blood had soaked into the bedclothing and mattress, and a large pool had dripped to the floor. From the wound on the victim's head, blood was still welling. Although unconscious, the Planchet boy was still alive, and was removed speedily to the Deaconess hospital. He failed, however, to regain consciousness, and expired at noon. The room bore no traces of a struggle. The walls near the cot displayed splatters of blood, but aside from these and the pool on the floor the room was in order. Chief Reed and the other officers who had arrived on the scene made a search of the premises, and in a woodshed the axe which the stepfather said he had employed in the commission of the crime was discovered, spotted with blood, both on the wooden handle and the steel blade.

Mrs. Drily Questioned

Mrs. Drily was now questioned as to her knowledge of the killing. She told of her son going to the movies in Concord Saturday evening in the company of another boy who resided in the locality. When young Planchet reached his home, about midnight, the Drily had retired, says his mother, and he undressed and went to sleep on the cot. About 5 a. m. Sunday, she says, Drily rose and went downstairs. Shortly afterwards, while the footsteps of her husband seemed to indicate his presence in the living room, she heard a man, but attached no importance to the sound. In view of her son's habit of snoring while asleep, At 5:30 o'clock she arose and dressed. Going to the ground floor, she failed to find her husband, and she entered the living room. To her horror she perceived that there was blood beneath the cot on which lay the body of her son, while splatters of red covered the wall at his side. The bedclothing had been pulled up, so that it concealed his head. Hurriedly pulling the blankets from young Planchet's feet, she was overwhelmed by the sight of a huge gash extending back from his forehead. The blood which still gushed from the wound had dyed the sheets, and soaked the night clothing of the boy. Hysterical, she ran from the house and sought the dwelling of a neighbor, in the hope of obtaining assistance. She had not returned from this residence, which lies at a distance of two hundred yards from the Drily home, when Chief of Police Reed reached the scene of the crime, accompanied by other police officers. The investigation which was immediately commenced established the fact that there were no witnesses to the blow which resulted in the death of young Planchet. Only the story told by Drily of his own collision furnishes any basis for a theory of the circumstances surrounding the fatal occurrence. The latter's manner, combined with the hesitancy of detail with which he gave his information to the police, has given seeming possibility to the belief that a sudden attack of criminal insanity, brought about by unpleasant relations with his victim, may have induced the deed.

Prisoner Is Reluctant

Drily, who had expressed an unwillingness to revisit the scene of the crime, remained at the station house during the police investigation. When Assistant District Attorney Frank Goldman arrived in Littleton, shortly prior to noon, he also viewed the home and woodshed. He then proceeded to Ayer, where he sought an interview with Drily. It was found, however, that the accused had engaged Attorney John D. Catney as his counsel, and declined to make any statement. Neighbors and officers of the Littleton police department who were queried by Mr. Goldman furnished the only information obtained by the state. Drily was arraigned in the Ayer police court this morning on charges of first degree murder, and pleaded not guilty. His case was continued to March 31.

Denies Ill Feeling

Mrs. Drily's insistence that there has been no ill feeling between her husband and her son leaves the precise motive for the crime veiled in mystery. However, it is believed possible that the accused may be a sufferer from hallucinations which led him to think that the boy had threatened his mother. Again, from other sources than the mother of the dead boy, the police have received information which may uncover evidence of unfriendly relations between the pair. However, Drily residence stands have little knowledge of the family. The Drily dwelling is on the Boston road. Mr. and Mrs. Drily, together with Planchet, moved there from Cambridge. It is said, less than half a year ago. The husband converted a house in the rear into a garage, and there carried on an automobile repairing business. Young Planchet would have completed his law course in 1922. It is said that Drily, who was an engineer on an interview vessel of the central powers, married Mrs. Drily some years ago, during the early part of the war. Later he took out his papers for American citizenship, and has a clear record in the communities where he had resided.

Lightning Flash Could Light Your Five-Room Flat for Month

DR. STEINMETZ AT WORK

Special to The Sun.
SCHEMECTADY, March 21.—The energy in one flash of lightning would illuminate the average five-room flat for a month.

The energy of a lightning flash, figured at 5 cents per kilowatt hour, would be worth 10 cents, says Dr. Charles P. Steinmetz, chief consulting engineer of the General Electric Co., who has just completed a study of the subject.

His power Dr. Steinmetz computes to be about 26,000,000 foot pounds, or 15 horsepower. A bolt of lightning strikes with the energy of a 200-ton train going at 50 miles an hour.

Why It "Heins It"

"Lightning is the passage of a very high voltage current of electricity from one spot to another," says Dr. Steinmetz. "But, while it is true that occasionally this current passes from cloud to cloud or from cloud to the earth, it usually is within a thundercloud."

"It, therefore, seems to be due to unbalanced electric pressure differences within the cloud, rather than to this charge between oppositely charged bodies."

"Lightning occurs mainly when rapid condensation of moisture takes place in the air, and the electric phenomena seem to be the more intense the greater the rapidity of condensation or rain formation."

"Thus the atmospheric electric disturbances seem to be connected with the clouds and rain. And there you have the reason why lightning is usually coincident with a rainstorm."

The Raindrop

"A raindrop, of course, is made up of tiny particles of moisture. Many such particles unite and so form larger paror portions, are under higher electric pressure or voltage, and there is an unstable equilibrium, until finally the accumulation of electricity at one such point becomes sufficient to overcome the resistance of the intervening air, and there is a lightning flash and the voltage is equalized.

"There are really three things which make up the lightning flash:

"The electric pressure, or 'voltage' of the thunder cloud.

"The current or flow of electricity in the discharge, given in 'amperes.'

"The duration of the discharge.

"All these three quantities multiplied give the energy.

"The human eye, of course, is not capable of measuring the infinitesimally short duration of a lightning flash, and the flash is seen merely because the eye retains an image it receives for a fraction of a second—about one-tenth of a second."

SAYS BRITISH CASH PAID FOR MEETING

NEW YORK, March 21.—Charges that Friday night's big "All American" mass meeting at Madison Square Garden was financed by British propagandists and that the American Legion was tricked in the affair were made yesterday at a meeting held in Lexington theatre by Friends of Freedom for India.

Capt. John F. McAree of this city, one of the speakers in favor of the separation of India from Great Britain, made the accusation.

"District Attorney Swann will shortly be asked to investigate that meeting," he said, "and look into the source of its funds. I'm a member of the American Legion and proud of it, but I want to tell you there wasn't a single man on the committee in charge of that meeting who was in service."

"That committee was financed by British propaganda funds, and the American Legion was pulled into a trap. It did not, see the trap until it demanded that the Sinn Fein flag of Ireland be placed in the color stands along with the emblems of England and France. That demand it decided the best way out was to permit no flag other than our own."

Major Eugene F. Kinkaid of New Jersey paid his respects to "British stupidity," which, he said, had brought about the state of affairs now existing in Ireland and India.

New York collected $21,252,640 in inheritance taxes last year.

PALM SUNDAY AT ST. ANNE'S CHURCH

Palms were distributed to members of the congregation in St. Anne's church at the morning service yesterday. The usual ritual for morning prayer was used.

The sermon was preached by Very Rev. Henry B. Washburn, dean of the Episcopal Theological school in Cambridge. The address dealt with the methods used in training young men for the ministry in the school.

At the evening service a special musical program was given. It included violin solos by Mrs. Bertha Knight Johnson, cornet solos by Arthur Heller, and singing by the vested choir of mixed voices. William Heller was the organist.

Rev. Apollon Grannis delivered a sermon at the evening service in which he spoke of the supreme kingship of Christ.

He compared the treatment which Jesus received from the priests of that time and the treatment accorded Washington and Lincoln. He said that even the disciples of Jesus did not understand him and hoped for good positions when he finally reached the head of his kingdom. He had great difficulty in making them understand that his kingdom was not of this earth and that therefore he did not control any political positions. Mr. Grannis called attention to the inevitableness of nature. How the sun rises and sets each day and how the tide ebbs and flows in spite of any attempts which man makes to stop it. Just as these are here to stay so is Jesus Christ here and so will he remain.

On Monday, Wednesday and Friday evenings this week services will be held at 7:45 o'clock and on Tuesday, Wednesday and Friday mornings communion services will be held at 9:30. Friday from 12 to 3 o'clock a tenebra service will be held. Next Sunday evening at 6 the regular Easter carol service will be given.

DISCUSS STRIKE ON SEA-GOING TOWBOATS

NEW YORK, March 21.—Representatives of the Association of Masters, Mates and Pilots left here today for Philadelphia to attend a conference at which plans will be discussed for a strike on sea-going towboats on the Atlantic and Gulf coasts, effective April 1.

William A. Maher, general manager of the association, said that the walk-out had been ordered because the Atlantic Towboat association had declined to renew wages $25 to $35 a month. He said about 150 towboats and 2000 men would be affected.

Largest Cotton Crop Since 1914

WASHINGTON, March 21.—The largest cotton crop since 1914 and the sixth largest in the history of the country was grown last year. Ginning statistics for the 1920-21 season announced today by the census bureau show 13,365,754 equivalent 500-pound bales for the 1920 crop. That is about 2,769,000 equivalent 500-pound bales less than the record crop of 1914 and is slightly smaller than the 1904 crop. The census bureau's figures of cotton actually ginned, which are accepted as the final production statistics show the crop to be 378,754 bales more than estimated by the department of agriculture last December in its final forecast of the year.

Pothier on Saturday pleaded guilty to involuntary manslaughter and was held for the United States court for the western district of the state of Washington under $10,000 bail, in default of which he still is in jail.

The census bureau announced today. The density in the individual states in 1920 ranged from 7-10 of one person per square mile in Nevada to 508.4 in Rhode Island. It exceeded 200 per square mile in five states, Rhode Island, with 566.4; Massachusetts 479.2; New Jersey 420; Connecticut, 286.4 and New York 217.9. The density figures for other states include: Maine 25.7; New Hampshire 49.1; Vermont 38.6.

ARREST FORMER OFFICER SUCCESSFUL MISSION AT OF LOYAL COALITION ST. PATRICK'S CHURCH

BOSTON, March 21.—Randolph Wellford Smith, formerly vice-president and publicity agent of the Loyal Coalition, and Elizabeth Shepard Smith were booked at the City Hall police station last night, charged with a serious statutory offense. The couple were arrested in Worcester yesterday afternoon following a communication to the Worcester police authorities from this city.

When booked at the City Hall police station Smith gave his age as 53 years and his residence as the Parker House. The woman gave her age as 42 years and her residence as the Parker House. They were detained in the guardroom for about a half-hour until a bail commissioner and bondsman arrived in the company of Smith's lawyer, James Coughlin. They were released as soon as the bail formalities had been arranged.

The arrest in Worcester was made on a lower court warrant, which was secured Saturday by Special Officer John Manning of the City Hall police station. He told reporters that he was accompanied to court by Smith's alleged wife, who is said to live in New York, and who, according to her statement as quoted by Manning, had not seen Smith since 1907.

She told the officer, she declared, that she has a family of seven grown children and that the man under arrest is the father of this family. She denied that there had been any divorce.

Worcester Man Offers Poor Big Opportunity

Mr. Charles A. Gammans of 5 Wesley Street, Worcester, shows this faith in CINOT by the following statement:—Also Tells of His Remarkable Recovery

The following statement of Mr. Gammans is backed up by the CINOT expert and he will offer the same as Mr. Gammans is so sure that CINOT is backed up not only by its users but by its makers. Mr. Gammans says:

"I'm a tin sheet iron worker, and quite a few years I have suffered agonies from indigestion. I was full of gas and my stomach felt like it had a lump of lead in it, also a severe burning in my stomach clear up to my throat, and when I got through working at night I could hardly get home, I was so tired and weak I could not digest anything that I ate. I have now taken two bottles of CINOT and I shall never tire of singing its praises. I can eat anything I like now and it does not distress me. I feel good and my friends ask me what I have been doing that I look so much better, and in conclusion I wish to say that I would not hesitate to pay ten dollars a bottle for CINOT if it cost that much, as it is more than worth it. And I will also say, if there is a person in Worcester that has the same sickness I had and can prove they have suffered like I did, and are too poor to buy a bottle, I will buy it for them."

CINOT is a vegetable compound made from the pure juices and extracts of many different roots, herbs, barks and berries. It acts on the bowels and relieves constipation, increases the appetite, induces sound sleep, quiets the nerves, stimulates the blood to full healthy action, thereby ridding the system of poisons which cause catarrh and rheumatism. CINOT rouses a sluggish liver to healthy action, thereby relieving headache, dizziness, indigestion, flatulence, bad taste in the mouth, salivary complexion, heartburn, and as a general tonic and system builder it is unexcelled.

The CINOT expert has headquarters at Dows Drug Store.

Many Fail to Cast Ballots

which little, if any, effort was made to stir up interest.

Are Not Interested

"The result of the balloting apparently shows that a large portion of the members of the chamber are not greatly interested in the packing house project one way or another," said Secretary-Manager George F. Wells this morning.

Although the opponents made the most vigorous campaign to have the measure rejected, the proponents of the project were by no means inactive. Some acrimony has been aroused as a result of the contest.

It has been claimed that, as one of the leaders of the objectors to the packing house is a member of the chamber, the opponents were given access to the membership rolls of the organization, and that a similar privilege was refused to them. The opponents, it is claimed, used this list to make a careful canvass of the membership and drag out every possible vote in the negative.

Another Objection

Friends of the plan to bring a packing house to Lowell also object to even the small vote being considered as having any appreciable bearing on the situation. It is said that a few persons and corporations in this city hold direct control over a sufficient number of votes to account for nearly all of the ballots cast against the proposition, and that efforts were directed toward capturing as many of these as possible.

In the case of one of the large mills of the city, for example, the corporation subscribes for 50 memberships. All of the fees for entrance into and continued membership in the chamber are paid by the company, however, and has but one vote in its own name, and the other memberships are distributed as gifts among employees.

Claim Minority Rule

It is asserted that under these conditions it is possible for a small, well-organized and active body of men or women to practically dictate what the result of a referendum shall be.

Secretary-Manager George F. Wells said today that he did not believe that any of the holders of the memberships bought and paid for the big corporations were influenced to vote otherwise than as they thought wisest. It was denied that there was any probability that any combination of industries had combined to keep the packing plant out of the city, and had used the referendum as a means of helping them achieve the end at which they aimed.

Not Claim Victory

Victory was being claimed today as a result of the referendum, by both the opponents and friends of the packing house measure. The opponents pointed to the more than two to one vote cast against the granting of a license for the plant. Those who would like to see the smoke arising out of the chimneys of the Harvard plant again, and are anxious to bring the new industry to the city, assert that the referendum shows that only a comparatively few persons could be found to vote against the measure, despite a strenuous campaign by interested parties, and that the fact that a vast majority of the members failed to take any part in the balloting reflects the opinion of a large part of the people of the city who are without a selfish interest in the matter and that they are indifferent or have no serious objection to the coming of the plant.

Some strong criticism is being made of the chamber for embarking on the referendum at all. It is said that the purpose of the chamber should be to enlarge the business activities of the city and bring new industries into town, and it is being claimed that it has been ill for the past two weeks, and was reported very much improved today and there is a possibility that its members who had a special interest in keeping the plant out of the city.

Every Person in This Section Who Is Weak, Run Down, Sick or Nervous, To Try This Great Medicine at My Expense. Free Bottle Will Be Given to All Who Come Early Tuesday, to Dows' Drug Store.

ALL HAVE THE SAME CHANCE TO GET WELL AND BE STRONG

This is an invitation you can't afford to ignore. I'll tell you why. I'm going to give you a free bottle of medicine that will tone you up and pay ten dollars a bottle for CINOT. I'm going to give you a free bottle of medicine that will tone you up and pay ten dollars a bottle for CINOT.

The medicine of which Henry James said: "It is the only medicine that eased my stomach and stopped the gas" will wipe away stomach troubles and put strength and vitality into the blood.

A highly efficient stomach medicine made from roots, herbs, barks, berries and a few other good things for the nerves, blood, stomach, kidneys and bowels.

You may be starving your blood in the midst of plenty. It isn't how much you eat that counts, but it's how you digest the food you eat.

You cannot get steam out of water without fire, you can't get brain power, nerve force and red blood corpuscles out of food without digestion. Thousands lack sufficient vital force and don't know why.

They think they need a tonic, a vacation or a change of scenery, but they don't. It's old indigestion that's the matter with them, and six days of my CINOT will prove it.

They don't get the strength out of their food. It's like running corn through a mill with the rollers too wide apart; the corn goes through, but the mill doesn't grind.

Don't Think You Must Have a Pain To Have Indigestion

Lack of flesh, too much fat, plump blotches, sallow complexion, lack of nerve force, impoverished blood, sleeplessness, headaches, backaches, dizziness, weak brain power, dizzy spells, spots floating before the eyes may all be due to faulty digestion process, either in the stomach or the bowels.

Take my CINOT with your other food for a week, and find out how your digestive organs are working. If the CINOT helps you greatly, gives you more force, strength and brain power, you may set it down that your liver and bowels were not doing their duty.

Only yesterday your head may have felt dull and heavy, you had the "blues," were cross, nervous or irritable, everything seemed to go wrong and you couldn't tell why.

It's ten to one it was old dyspepsia, slowly getting in his work, not enough to cause you pain, but just enough to dull your brain, rob you of your vitality, upset your liver and deplete your nerve force. Maybe you don't think so, but try a bottle of CINOT and see if it don't change "blues" to a bright, cherry red, make the old world laugh in a merry gale, and put new vigor and vim in your life again.

Lon Cox, the travelling salesman, had stomach trouble so bad he practically had to live on liquid foods. He couldn't even eat vegetables without suffering terrible pain. He took two bottles of CINOT and can now eat anything he wants without any distress whatever—sounds like a miracle! Well, we have Mr. Cox's own signed statement to that effect.

J. M. Burke, the N.Y. N.H. conductor, says he had rheumatism so bad he had to use a cane to get around at all. On his fourth bottle of CINOT he said: "I am now feeling fine. HAVE THROWN AWAY MY CANE." These are only two out of hundreds, yes, thousands.

Test This Medicine Free

Mr. Sufferer, have you ever heard of the wonderful medicine, that talks, that really tells you itself what it can do—that's CINOT. Five minutes after you take it the medicine begins to unfold its virtues, and it will, by actual demonstration, unfold to you more in regard to its merits in ten minutes than I could probably make you believe if I wrote you ten books as large as the dictionary.

"Words cannot tell how glad we are for CINOT," declares Mrs. Beazley. "The first bottle fixed me up," says W. W. Harden. "I am a changed man now," states Rev. G. W. Pope.

You may know some of these people or know somebody who knows them. I'll send you their full addresses if you want them, so that you can find out about my CINOT and the wonders it has wrought.

Probably you are now thinking whether all this can be true—stop it. Come Tuesday, March 22, to Dows Drug Store and ask for the CINOT man; he will give you absolutely free a good-sized bottle of my CINOT. This offer is open to every man and woman in Lowell and vicinity. There are no ifs, ands or buts attached to it, except that you come early before the generous supply of free bottles has been used. You don't have to buy anything if you don't want to, all I ask is that you step in and test this wonderful medicine and see for yourself what it can do for you. So please come as early as possible.

The CINOT expert has headquarters at Dows Drug Store to meet the local public and explain the merits of this remedy.

Four Believed Buried in Debris Following Explosion in Grain Elevator

CHICAGO, Mar. 21.—Wrecking crews today were clearing away the tons of debris scattered by an explosion Saturday night in the elevator of the Armour Grain Co., on the South Side, under which the bodies of four victims were believed to be buried. The two known dead were blown out of the structure by the blast, which it was believed was due to spontaneous combustion which ignited inflammable mill dust.

The grain loss was placed at about $1,000,000 by E. A. James, secretary of the company, who said that it was believed $3,000,000 worth of grain remaining in the concrete bins could be salvaged.

Police and officials of the company declared they placed little credence in a theory that the explosion might have been caused by a dissatisfied employee.

EXPENSES OF 227 CITIES EXCEED REVENUES

WASHINGTON, March 31.—Governmental costs, including interest and outlays for permanent improvements for the 227 cities of the country with a population of 40,000 or more, exceeded total revenues by $3,991,000 in the year 1919, according to statistics of municipal finances made public today by the census bureau. Deducting the item of permanent outlays, however, revenues which aggregated $1,224,112,000 or 45.32 per cent, exceeded governmental costs by $2,812,000.

Revenue receipts exceeded current governmental expenses and interest in all but four cities of the group, while in 17 cities revenues exceeded all expenditures, including permanent outlays. The total net indebtedness of the group was placed at $2,679,551,000, or 47.82 per cent, with that of New York city alone $1,009,000,000, amounting to almost three-fifths of the total.

A BRIDGEPORT LADY SUFFERED FOR TEN YEARS

Stomach Trouble Never Let Up
Her For One Single Day Till She Found Cinot, the New Herbal Remedy

"For ten long years I have been a patient sufferer from stomach trouble, constipation and a few other things," declared Mrs. Hanton, of No. 276 Fairfield avenue, the well-known and highly respected lady of Bridgeport, in a signed statement for publication.

"I have spent many a dollar for medicine and doctor bills, seeking relief from gastritis, dyspepsia, indigestion and constipation. My stomach often became so swollen from gas that it felt like a rope tied around my body. No matter how careful I was about my food, it was the same; always that sourness, belching, choked-up feeling. My nerves became all unstrung and I never knew a good night's rest. Heavy, dragging pains in my back, over my kidneys, became almost unbearable. My liver was sluggish, tongue coated, spots danced before my eyes; my limbs ached and my general health was about broken down."

"I am 67 years old and had given up hope of ever being strong and well again. But I am here today, praising CINOT for the grand, wonderful benefits it has given me. I am not like the same sickly, puny woman I was before, but feel good all over. All functions acting regularly; my food digests well, with no more gas or sour belching. The pains are gone from my back and limbs, and my liver is active again. Say anything you want to in the papers about CINOT for you will not be able to fully express my gratitude to this great remedy."

BURIED MEXICAN CITY

Remains of City of 100,000

Which Flourished 4000

Years Ago Uncovered

SAN JUAN DE TEOTIHUACAN, Mexico, March 21.—Prospecting for the habitations of a lost race in virtually the same manner as miners dig for gold, federal employees here have just started to uncover the remains of a city of at least 100,000 inhabitants which flourished 4,000 or more years ago. Here and there over the ruins of the buried city have been sunk shafts to find streets, houses and temples known to exist below the level of the modern valley. It was the little village of San Juan de Teotihuacan, the name of which means in the Aztec tongue, "City of the Gods."

The Mexican government has appropriated funds for this work of excavation which is in charge of Manuel Gamio, director of anthropology of the department of agriculture. The government hopes eventually to map the spot one of the oldest places of Mexico.

Dominating the area are the two pyramids, one to the sun and the other to the moon, which for centuries have defied the efforts of archeologists and historians to trace their origin. The pyramid to the moon is still untouched, retaining an appearance to the eye of a huge mound of irregular shape, overgrown with grass and rubble.

Between the two pyramids is a well defined plaza, on one side of which a street has been discovered less than a year ago, when erosion uncovered well defined walls and decorations typically Indian and Egyptian in their conception. This temple has now been dug out and reconstructed on the exterior. The inside is reached at present through a series of subterranean passages. Inside, the visitor treads over massive stone with ornate decorations of huge serpents with obsidian eyes and grotesque conceptions reminiscent of Egyptian art. The work of interior excavation and reconstruction is far from complete.

Between this temple and the pyramid to the sun is a stretch of one-quarter of a mile which is at intervals pierced by the shafts of the diggers and in some places by the uncovered remains of a house or public building with the paint still bright and the frescoes as intact as the day they were placed there several thousands of years ago.

The work of interior excavation and reconstruction is far from complete.

Immense stores of valuable archaeological material have been taken from the various excavations. Human bones, terra cotta heads, obsidian knives, arrowheads, children's toys of clay, cooking utensils, incense burners and crude musical instruments form the bulk of the find and all are preserved in a museum which has just been erected on the grounds.

The two pyramids, however, are the dominant structures of the city. The pyramid to the sun measures 151 feet at the base and is 216 feet high narrowing to a level summit. Unlike the pyramids of Egypt with its huge jutting blocks of stone forming an endless stairs to the top, the sun pyramid is built with a smooth surface in five distinct tiers. Ascent is made by steps built into the side and to the uninitiated the undertaking is almost perilous because of the steep incline with no supporting balustrades. It differs from its Egyptian counterparts also in the respect that it contains no interior passages or rooms.

The pyramid of the moon is smaller with a base measuring about 51x125 feet. It rises 151 feet with a crowning platform about 19 feet square.

In connection with his supervision of the excavations, Sr. Gamio has interested himself in the Indian life of the valley and one of his first efforts has been to establish schools with special attention paid to manual training. Originally, the valley contained 200,000 Indians, but these had been reduced to 20,000 in colonial days and now number less than 8,000. They earn but a poor living when crops are good, and when there are failures starvation and widespread death ensue. Groups of Indians at pottery making, a new industry in the valley, were evidence that a portion at least of Sr. Gamio's program is being carried out.

KEEP LOOKING YOUNG

It's Easy—If You Know Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets

The secret of keeping young is to feed young—to do this you must watch your liver and bowels—there's no need of having a sallow complexion—dark rings under your eyes—pimples—a bilious look in your face—dull eyes with no sparkle. Your doctor will tell you ninety per cent of all sickness comes from inactive bowels and liver.

Dr. Edwards, a well-known physician in Ohio, perfected a vegetable compound mixed with olive oil to act on the liver and bowels, which he gave to his patients for years.

Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets, the substitute for calomel, are gentle in their action yet always effective. They bring about that natural buoyancy which all should enjoy by toning up the liver and clearing the system of impurities.

Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets are known by their olive color, 15c and 30c.

WALES IS LAND OF INDUSTRIAL ROMANCE

LONDON, March 21.—Renewed attention has just been called to the romantic story of the great industrial development in South Wales, a land of romance in industry, by the building of a new 7,000,000 pound "oil town" near Swansea with homes for a population of 1500 workers.

The site of the new enterprise for the refining of oil brought there from the Persian gulf is Swensen, between South and Swansea where vast oil refineries have been constructed.

There within a boundary wall 15 miles in circumference a great oil company has built a new town including stores, canteens, a postoffice and in fact, almost every adjunct for the comfort and convenience of the workers and their families who are to inhabit the place.

The undertaking is described as among the largest and most ambitious ever known even in South Wales where the great advances in industry have yielded more fortune than in any other part of the United Kingdom.

The town sprang into existence as if by a magician's wand on an arid waste, lying in a hollow basin surrounded by small hills. It is about 400 acres in extent and about five miles from Swansea. Towering tanks, each capable of holding 1,000,000 gallons of oil, now rear their heads above the village and at Swansea great docks and reservoirs have been constructed to receive the ships with their oil from the Persian gulf and other oil-bearing regions of the near east. As received, the oil will be pumped through pipes from Swansea through the new refining town and after refinement will be returned over the same route to Swansea for world-wide distribution.

This inaugurates an industry in South Wales which it is predicted will add new wealth to that already prosperous region.

PEOPLE FLED WHEN AIRPLANE LANDED

SAN JUAN DEL SUR, NICARAGUA, March 21.—There are even yet in remote parts of the world people who never even heard of an airplane. Some of these people live in the little Nicaraguan village of Gigante, where the naval plane NC-5 was forced down by a hurricane while on its flight from San Diego, Cal., to Panama along with about a dozen other planes in January.

They thought the NC-5 was a huge bird, an albatross, which had come in search for some unfortunate mariner who had offended it and they hid in the woods for several hours.

Near the little cove where the NC-5 came down are two ranches. After the Associated Press correspondent had found the missing NC-5 he visited one of these ranches and asked the women if they had seen the plane arrive. One of them replied:

"Mio Dios, I should think so. At the sight of the horrible thing skipping over the white caps, without flapping its wings, and splitting fire from both sides of its body and roaring like 20,000 bulls we all took to the timber where we remained for about four hours. We only came out when we saw a foreign gentleman passing near where we were hiding."

The women added that before the great war, when sailing ships used to visit the Nicaraguan coast to load mahogany and cedar, the captains had told them of a wonderful bird called albatross, that was an inhabitant of the southern seas and they supposed this bird had come after some offending sailor.

REPUBLICAN INERTIA

Much interest will centre in the coming visit of former President Wilson of France, who is to confer with President Harding in reference to modifications in the League of Nations with a view to making that compact acceptable to the United States. It will be remembered that President Harding during his campaign repudiated the League of Nations, stating that he would have nothing to do with it and that he favored an international association of powers to promote peace. It is now very generally understood that he has changed his attitude in this respect, and that on the advice of the "leading minds" in his party, he is preparing to have the United States enter the league providing certain modifications be made in the covenant. One of these will doubtless be the elimination of Article X. It is well understood that the European powers are willing to make almost any concession in order to induce the United States to enter the league. It is, however, regarded as wholly impracticable to form a new league as some of President Harding's advisers suggested.

It is also understood that the republican leaders intend after the assembling of congress in special session, to have a resolution adopted declaring that the war between the United States and the German empire no longer exists. This resolution may be coupled with a substitute for the League of Nations, which would simply be the present league slightly modified. That, however, is not the usual mode of ending a war.

Two other great questions pressing for settlement are the revision of the taxation system and the tariff. It is proposed to abolish the excess profits tax and provide a revenue-raising substitute in the form of a retail sales tax with other modifications of the tax schedule now in operation. Some change along these lines is urgently needed.

The manufacturing industries are urging prompt action for a revision of the tariff along traditional republican lines and if they prevail this work will be taken out of the hands of the present tariff commission, which is the body best qualified to revise the tariff in a manner that will subserve the interest of the entire country rather than those of the republican party. If the tariff be radically increased, it will result in retaliatory measures by other countries. Already there is conflict among the party leaders over the question as to whether the tariff revision should have priority over the taxation question; and on both there is likely to be wide divergence of opinion even among the party bosses.

The question of controlling patronage has already resulted in strained relations between the president and the senate. It is alleged that the senators feel that their prerogatives are being encroached upon by the freedom with which the president is making appointments without consulting them before selecting the nominees. As usual there is an almost irrepressible drive for places by republican office-seekers and the leaders are planning how they will increase the number of vacancies by removing the democratic incumbents. It appears that there is to be a great revival of the spoils system for paying political debts, although the large deficit remaining over from the election is to be taken up by districts, each being required to contribute its quota.

Political questions are engaging the attention of the president and his cabinet to such an extent that very little attention is given to the real work of reconstruction and the revival of business throughout the country. It was supposed that when the republicans once got control of the government an improvement in business would promptly result, but thus far the tendency has been in the other direction. There has been an increase in unemployment instead of a decrease, but perhaps it is too early to hold the present administration accountable for industrial conditions. We are willing to give them an opportunity to make good their promises, but in recent years the tradition that prosperity follows the republican party, has been utterly discarded and it is not likely to be re-established by any new business policy of the present administration.

THE TAX RATE

At a time when the cost of living is rapidly coming down, it will be a serious blow to any city if the tax rate, already high, be increased. Last year, it was made known that but for an increase of from 15 to 25 per cent in the valuation, the tax rate would have been $2.50 per $100. In 1920 there was also an increase in the tax rate, so that if the valuation had been increased, our tax rate would have been over $3.00 for the highest of any city in the state. It may be of interest to show the tax rates of other cities. Lowell's rate is higher than that of Lowell, probably because of the city's larger population. A jump in the assessed value of property. The tax rate for Lowell was $2.50 for the year 1920. Salem, $1.50; Cambridge, $1.50; Lawrence, $1.50; Boston, $1.50; Springfield, $1.50; Lynn, $1.50; Lowell, $1.50; New Bedford, $1.50; Worcester, $1.50; Fall River, $1.50; Holyoke, $1.50. It may be recalled that a certainty that if the city taxes be increased this year, either through a rise in tax rate or another increase in valuation, it will mean higher rents throughout the city. That is something the people don't want.

COST OF GOVERNMENT

The Sun's campaign for a reduction in the appropriations in the budget, and a lower tax rate, resulted in a substantial saving to the people of Lowell. Again The Sun has fought the people's battle, and with their support, has won a victory over extravagance worth winning. If it is not as complete as might be desired. In the original budget estimates a lot of extravagance had been planned. Salary raises were planned all around. Expensive automobiles were to be bought. Extravagant estimates for supplies were on every page. Many of the original estimates were doubtless padded to some extent with the expectation that they would be reduced. That there would be any such cut as was finally made, it is doubtful if anyone, least of all, any member of the municipal council, dreamed.

As a result of The Sun's campaign, and the generous support that was given to it by the chamber of commerce, the tax payers and the public generally, $33,234 was topped off the appropriations. In the figures for the isolation hospital alone a reduction was made from $112,123 to $78,000.

Nevertheless, the municipal council has authorized expenditures for the current year that are $314,255 in excess of those of last year. This added expenditure, it should be remembered, is authorized in a time when costs of all kinds are falling, and information is coming in that other places have succeeded in cutting down their tax rates.

Certainly the people will be interested to know, and perhaps the municipal councilors may be able to explain, why when incomes are being decreased, when merchants' profits are dwindling, when the big textile plants are being run at not over 60 per cent of their capacity, and when expenses of conducting private enterprises are being reduced everywhere, it has been found necessary to add greatly to the cost of operating the big corporation that we call the city of Lowell.

It will not be possible for some time to tell exactly what the tax rate for the year is to be. That it will be substantially larger than last year appears certain. Unless the state and county taxes fall below those of last year, or unless there come substantial increases of revenue from various sources, or a considerable addition is made to the assessed valuation of the city, it is difficult to see how the rate for the present year can fall below $3. This is an increase of nearly $4 over last year's rate of $2.70.

MONKEYS AND BABIES

"We injected in a monkey 5 cc. of the blood of a measles patient," says a report recently made by Dr. Charles Nicolle and Dr. T. Conell, famous microbiologists of the Institute Pasteur, Paris, France. The report continues: "Nine days later its (monkey's) temperature had risen to 100.7. Four days later it was inoculated with the blood of this monkey two other animals and an infant."

"After nine days of inoculation the child presented all the classical symptoms of the measles. The blood of the child was then in its turn injected into three monkeys, etc., etc."

It may be asked whether babies should thus be used for experimental purposes; but the answer comes—without the consent of parent or guardian. The doctors in such a case usually can give assurance that the experiment is not dangerous; and through this slight inconvenience to one child the lives of many may be saved. There is no lapsing into the practice of vivisection of human beings; but so far as may be reasonably safe, society must co-operate with the doctors in the work of medical and surgical research.—N.E.A.

Lowell is not a "small city," and President Chaffoux of the chamber of commerce wants people to stop calling it such. But there are some people so "set" in their ways that they will not "set" in their ways that they will not. The small boy who said of his mother: "When ma says a thing's no, 'tis so, even if it ain't so." President Charles W. Eliot, on his 57th birthday, has been telling of some of the urgent needs of education. One of them, we note, is that children shall be so instructed that they will be able to select for office efficient and honest men, capable of giving the people good service.

SEEN AND HEARD

Saw the fly?
Included in the wages of sin are the defending lawyer's fees.
And those who sell gold bricks to farmers are loud in their complaint against low farm prices.
There are some who believe business needs more pep, nobody is agreed that it needs more dollars.
No man finds consolation in that a cut in his wages means a cut in his net year's income tax.
"The day of the vampire is wanting," observes Theda Bara. A few gray hairs and some wrinkles, do it, eh?
World Owes Him Something
A man has an income of $4000. He has also a wife and 13 children. He gave $10 to the Red Cross last year. Now this man isn't satisfied with not being obliged to pay a cent of income tax. He claims that the government owes him $2. Who do you think?—Cleveland Plain Dealer.

What a Relief!
Two American women, one of whom carried an infant of surprising ugliness, entered a London bus. A man who sat opposite them seemed fascinated by the ugliness of the baby and could not keep his eyes off it. At length the mother, annoyed by the prolonged stare, leaned forward and said, "Rubber!" The man, unaware that this is the Yankee expression for a rubber stamp, of course replied: "Thank heavens! I thought it was real!"

Won on a Chance
Hearing that some work was on hand, an unemployed man made up his mind to start without being properly engaged.
Therefore, in the morning he took his pick and shovel and jumped into the trench with the others.
When the time-keeper came along to take the men's numbers he said: "What's your number?"
"O," answered the man, "they never give me one."
"Who started you?" asked the time-keeper.
"That man over there," was the answer, pointing to one who happened to be the foreman, standing some distance away.

The time-keeper went off grumbling and in about 10 minutes returned with a number for the man who had chanced it.
The Window Garden
House plants in the window:
And the hundreds passing by
Feel their hearts relaxing quick
Or a joy dancing in the eye.
For the bellflower, pansy,
And the rose geranium smiles,
And the coral-red begonia
Peeps out with winsome wiles.
The hyacinth crowds the curtain:
The saucy daffodil
Shines forth, a dith in a yellow skirt,
There's a cutting full of bushes,
A Jerusalem cherry tree,
And an Easter lily, gravely bent
To bow to you and me.

House plants in the window—
There's something good in there;
They must keep hope, a growing strong
And a little blossom so fair;
They must have joy that clammers,
Like that green vine above,
And a pot or so of laughter bright,
And a plant of goodness too.

MAN ABOUT TOWN

Former service men of Lowell and especially those who were disabled in the world war will be interested in the efforts of Congressman John Jacob Rogers to have congress pass legislation which will take some of the red tape and delay out of the present system which the government employs in assisting disabled men. Mr. Rogers is introducing on the day of the 6th congress convenes his bill which aims to consolidate the government agencies which care for disabled service men and to speed up payments in those cases where the former soldiers and sailors are clearly entitled to assistance. The congressman says that the present system at best is hopelessly confused and of opportunities for delay, and at its worst, months elapse between the original application for assistance and the furnishing of the war risk bureau the necessary material for a recognition of the claim. Mr. Rogers believes that the work should be consolidated and that branch offices should be established in various parts of the country so that time may be saved in this important work.

Those of us who heard the Boston Symphony orchestra play at the Strand last November and who recall the flattering reception accorded Miss Irma Seidel, the soloist of the evening, will be interested in the recent announcement of the marriage of Miss Seidel to William Dunbar, an actor. Miss Seidel, now Mrs. Dunbar, played a concerto by Liszt on the occasion of her appearance here with the noted orchestra and rarely has a violinist aroused more enthusiasm than did she that night despite the dominating attractiveness of the great orchestra. Miss Seidel had a most charming stage presence and in her several visits to Lowell won many friends and admirers. Her marriage to Mr. Dunbar took place in the rectory of All Saints' church in Brooklyn and the only witnesses were the bride's parents. Whether Mrs. Dunbar is to forsake further concert engagements is not announced, but it is to be sincerely hoped that she will not.

An incident happened in the city treasurer's office a few days ago that is calculated to make a good many citizens hang their heads in shame. It was the act of a man upon whom some citizens would look with scorn. A so-called "broad-shouldered" working-man clad in dungarees. His attire was plain English was limited. He wore a broad smile, and he glanced around the place with something that seemed the pride of a least partial ownership. In his hand he carried a small purse.

"I want to pay poll tax," he announced and was told by one of the young women clerks in the counter. "Have you your tax bill?" asked the young lady.
"I want pay poll tax," was the only answer.
Then the clerk turned to extracting the name and address of the inhabitant poll tax payer. After looking up the record she pushed back the money that was thrust upon her. "You paid your poll tax last June," she said.

Finally by the intervention of a third party and argument the man seemed to be conveyed to the door of the treasurer's office. The man who had been so bold for taking out a poll tax was now being taken out. He departed smiling and naturally. His last words were: "I want pay poll tax—I want to be good citizen."

URGES JUST DEALINGS

Coolidge Declares This is No Time to Press for an Undue Advantage

BOSTON, March 21.—The country's economic need at the moment, in the opinion of Vice President Calvin Coolidge, is just dealings with employees by business enterprises, with thought at the same time for the necessities of the consumer. "This is no time," he thinks, "to press for an undue advantage."

The vice president's views are contained in a "message to American business" which will be published today in Current Affairs, the weekly publication of the Boston chamber of commerce. With the cultivation of a friendly relation between the elements of labor and capital engaged in production, he predicts the beginning of a new era of prosperity for the nation.

"The present administration," he said, "stands pledged to use its utmost endeavors for the development of American business, foreign and domestic. It has already begun work upon these problems and is formulating a definite program plan, regarding the re-forming of our revenue laws which affect internal taxation and import duties. "With the settlement of our international relations and the defining of the Germany indemnity, we ought to reach a stabilized condition, which should result in a large business expansion. President Harding has chosen for his advisers men not only intelligent but sympathetic in touch with American business in all its different avenues. There also is a disposition on the part of the congress to give more and more attention to the development of business, not only for the purpose of increasing the general welfare, but as the only means of the relief of unemployment, and the increase of prosperity."

"It would be futile to under-estimate the difficult problems which must be faced and solved, arising out of the general exhaustion which has come to the world as the result of the war. The advice of expert business men will be needed for the solution through the co-operation and co-ordination of all the elements of power throughout the nation. "It is very necessary, under present conditions, that American business enterprises should deal with their employees in a way to commend itself to their sense of justice, and at the same time keep in mind the necessities of the consumer. Failure in either respect will handicap industry and those who are attempting to revive business and greatly delay their progress. This is no time to press for an undue advantage. It is time to cultivate a friendly relation between all the different elements of production, whether represented by investment or by labor. Putting the nation in that state of mind will be the beginning of a new era of prosperity."

Lowell stands above the average in a list of 23 eastern cities, with populations over 100,000, as regards the provision of playgrounds for children. The minimum per child that is considered desirable is 100 square feet. These facts were made public today by the chamber of commerce as the result of a nation-wide survey by the American City Bureau of New York with which the local chamber is affiliated.

Half the playgrounds connected with schools in Lowell have playground space of 50 square feet per child, says the report. "Half the playgrounds in Fall River have 60 square feet per child; New Bedford, 57 square feet per child; Springfield, 53 square feet per child; Worcester, 45 feet per child. Listed with the same 23 cities, Lowell stands below the average in the number of rooms for elementary school buildings. In the provision of playgrounds for children, the minimum per child that is considered desirable is 100 square feet. These facts were made public today by the chamber of commerce as the result of a nation-wide survey by the American City Bureau of New York with which the local chamber is affiliated.

"Three million six hundred thousand children are represented in this report on playgrounds. Figures show that one-half of them have a playground space of less than six by six feet and many of them have no playground at all. The largest playground provided for one-quarter of the 3,000,000 children is three by four feet, which is a smaller space than is allotted to the child in the classroom. The tables show that this congestion is general throughout the United States. Conditions are particularly bad in eastern cities.

"We have failed to provide education for all of the youth of America. For every 100 boys and girls enrolled in schools at nine years of age, we can count on only 21 of them being present when they reach 13 years of age; 51 of them at 14 years of age; 62 of them at 15 years of age; and 36 of them at 16 years of age.

HISTORY OF PRICES REPEATS

The accompanying chart explains the generally accepted idea that "prices" may drop but they never go back to what they were.

This chart was prepared by the Federal Reserve bank of New York, from government statistics. It shows, by years since 1825, the ebb and flow of prices of the 74 commodities of common use, expressed in actual money values.

For instance, the chart shows that what cost $1.25 in 1825 could be bought for 70 cents in 1895 and about $1.80 in January, 1921.

The chart shows that actual prices averaged exactly the same in 1812, 1878 and 1913. Prices in 1919 were the same as in 1861. In 1896 prices averaged lower than in any previous year back to 1825, earliest record available, barring temporary price slumps due to panics, as in 1873.

Observe that prices declined steadily from 1864, reached bottom in 1896, then rose steadily until May, 1920, and now are on the tologran downward again.

The reason one generation can't understand the next is largely due to exchanging prices—the fluctuating buying power of the dollar.

Father observes son spending $75 a week and shakes his head. He mumbles something about keeping a family on $15 a month in the old days.

Father forgets that in the old days he didn't pay $50 or more a month for rent, or $50 for a fair suit of clothes, or that the average tax levy in 1921 is as big as the yearly cash income of Jonas, the hired man on the farm in the old days.

In this generation, son may think father's complaints are those of an old-fashioned lightwad. Several generations hence, when the tables are turned and prices are low, great-grandson will run across a 1920 expense account in an old trunk in the attic and will lament that the family would be as rich as chocolate cake if great-grandpapa had saved his enormous income in 1920.

CHILMSFORD NEWS

Cavalry Attempt to Burn Schoolhouse—Damage to Building and Contents Estimated at $500

A dastardly attempt to burn the South Row school house in Chelmsford Centre was frustrated late Saturday afternoon by a passerby who saw smoke coming from the building and gave the alarm. Men living nearby succeeded in holding the fire in check until the arrival of the fire department. The fire started in the northeast corner of the building and had worked its way through the roof when the firemen arrived. The damage to the building was estimated at about $400 and an equal amount to books and supplies. The school, a one-room building, had been thoroughly ransacked, desks broken and many books, including records, with the exception of the register, had been crowded into the stove and burned. The pupils' desks had been emptied of their contents and with quantities of paper had been piled in a corner of the room, an old desk placed on top and the pile evidently touched off. But for the timely discovery, the building would have been destroyed. An investigation was immediately started by the authorities and every effort will be made to discover and punish the offenders. Repairs will be completed so that the regular sessions can be resumed by March 28.

This new way to beautiful teeth

Your druggist today has a new way of teeth cleaning. And a ten-day tube is free.

Millions of people now employ it. Leading dentists everywhere advise it. You would never go without it if you knew.

Go ask for that free tube. There are few things more important than well-protected teeth.

Remove the film-coat

You brush teeth now, but you leave much of the film. A viscous film clings to the teeth, enters crevices and stays. The ordinary tooth paste does not end it. So teeth too often discolor and decay.

Dentists now know that the reason lies in film. That causes most tooth troubles. And, until one ends it, brushing fails to save the teeth.

It is the film-coat that discolors, not the teeth. Film is the basis of tartar. It holds food substance which ferments and forms acid. It holds the acid in contact with the teeth to cause decay.

Millions of germs breed in it. They, with tartar, are the chief cause of pyorrhea. And pyorrhea wrecks countless lives today.

An alarming situation

Tooth troubles have been constantly increasing. Very few people escape them. So dental science has in late years studied to combat that film.

Now we know how. The methods have been proved by careful clinical tests, made under able authorities. Now millions of people employ them, largely by dental advice. A new era in teeth cleaning is fast spreading the world over.

These new methods are combined in a dentifrice called Pepsodent. A 10-Day Tube is given to everyone who asks. Now all who will may quickly know that film can be combated.

What you will see

A test of Pepsodent brings quick and unique effects. One sees and feels them clearly. And a book which comes with the 10-Day Tube tells the reasons for them.

One ingredient is pepsin. Another multiplies the starch digestant in the saliva to digest starch deposits that cling. Each application also multiplies the alkalinity of the saliva—to neutralize the acids which cause tooth decay.

Two factors directly attack the film. One keeps the teeth so highly polished that film cannot easily adhere.

Day by day we fight the film and all its ill effects. You see the results in whiter teeth. You feel them in cleaner teeth. But the great results are such protection as teeth never had before.

You owe yourself a knowledge of these facts. Old ways of brushing have proved sadly inadequate. Nearly everybody at some time suffers troubles caused by film.

Now science knows how to combat film, and in ten days you can know. Never again will you trust the old ways when you know the new.

MARY'S KITCHEN

Seldom a woman can do pimentoes may be used at the time it is opened.

If one pepper is needed in a dish, four or five are left to spoil if not properly taken care of.

Put pimentoes in a bowl in a weak vinegar. Cover with a saucer and set in a cool place. The pimentoes will keep for two or three weeks and the flavor will not be injured.

A few snips of pimento add much to many otherwise uninteresting dishes.

Romand Steak Croquettes

Three-fourths pound round steak, ½ cup dried bread crumbs, 1 teaspoon salt, ¼ teaspoon pepper, ¼ teaspoon minced onion, milk.

Have the steak ground, using whatever fat there is on the meat. Mix ground meat, bread crumbs and seasoning thoroughly. Add enough milk to make quite moist. Form into flat cakes, roll in flour and cook in about a dessertspoonful of fat in a hot frying pan. The cakes should be made as flat as possible, for they shrink and thicken up during the cooking. The meat should be well done all the way through the cakes.

JIMMY AND BILLY DUFFY
BOX WEDNESDAY NIGHT

How will the coming battle between Billy Duffy of Everett and Jimmy Duffy of New York compare with the recent Vaigier-Jacks bout?

This question has been asked by many of the devotees of the sport since the announcement was made that the Duffy brothers would meet on Wednesday night.

For scientific boxing, the coming bout will resemble the last week's numbers about as much as Vaigier resembles either one of the Duffys. The Vaigier-Jacks bout, in our humble opinion, was a skillful boxing treat. The Duffy-Duffy clash, the week before last, which we may judge what the second engagement will be, was a real old-time fight. There is quite a difference between boxing and fighting as applied by devotees of the sport. The Duffys come from a fighting race and they uphold the reputation to the letter. As real two-fisted haymakers, fighters, they are both just masters. They are action producers and lose little time in side-stepping, dancing around, feinting, blocking, and dodging. And as Jimmy and Billy are both dissatisfied with the decision in the other meeting, it may be expected that the New Yorkers will work as never before in an effort to even up the score.

Young Avila of Lowell and Tony Marcano of Boston will also meet in a 10-round number and Young Flanagan of South Boston will tackle Kid Williams of Lowell in an 8-round event.

N. Y. EXPERT'S VIEW OF
WILSON-O'DOWD BOUT

Charles F. Mathison, boxer writer for the New York Herald, has the following on the recent Wilson-O'Dowd championship bout:

The Wilson-O'Dowd combat is still the topic of conversation and discussion in sporting circles, with varying opinions as to the justice of the decision that gave the diamond belt to the Bostonian.

It was generally conceded that the bout would have been a lame one but for the continuous aggression of O'Dowd, who forced the pace from the first going to the last. This circumstance, combined with the thrilling encounter between Gorman and Baird, served to make the entertainment enjoyable.

There is considerable mystery as to how Shortell and McAvoy managed to reach their decision in favor of Wilson. It is probable that the judges who declared O'Dowd the winner, gave as his reason the role that compels a judge to deduct points from a boxer who hits foul blows, even though unintentional. Shortell and McAvoy, however, not only landed foul blows, but that he was strictly on the defensive and did all the holding. Clause 5 of the rule regarding the duties of judges says:

"Points must be deducted for a foul, even though it is unintentional, and not of a serious enough nature to warrant disqualification."

McAvoy warned Wilson twice in the middle of the ring and told Wilson he was hitting low.

Again at the close of a round McAvoy told Wilson's corner and was distinctly heard to say: "Keep your blows up."

Yet despite this action by the referee, neither he nor Judge Shortell penalized O'Dowd for the deduction of a point.

The fact that an examination in O'Dowd's dressing room disclosed serious injury to the former champion makes the action of McAvoy and Shortell all the more remarkable.

The foul blows landed by Wilson were so palpable that no one could be misled.

A summary of the offenses for which Wilson deservedly lost points is as follows:

1. Struck four foul blows and was twice warned by the referee.

2. Did not keep his hands up from start to finish and struck only counterpunching blows, showing that O'Dowd did the greater part of the leading.

Butted with the head at every opportunity, cutting a gash in O'Dowd's head.

4. Clinched every time he and O'Dowd came to close quarters. Persistently maintaining a clinch is four times as bad as cutting a gash in O'Dowd's head.

5. Ran backward 10 times in 15 rounds to escape the attacks of O'Dowd.

6. Anointed his hair and shoulders with an offensive substance in odor. This is prohibited by the rules.

On the other hand, O'Dowd did these things:

1. Was the aggressor from the opening bell in the first round to the last going in the closing round. Aggressiveness is highly rated in the casting up of points.

2. Did 50 per cent of the leading, which also calls for high rating in points.

3. Landed more clean blows than Wilson, which is a point winner.

4. Held his hands up from start to finish and kept his hands up in the final round despite the weakening effects of the low blows dealt to him.

The boxing commission has a plain duty before it, and that is to change the system of casting decisions. By the present plan the referee is acquainted with the votes of the judges before he is called on to give his verdict. The announcer should have all the official cards of the judges before any announcement is made. In that event the referee would not be influenced by what either of the judges might decide.

FISH CONSERVATION
Committee Urges Radical Action to Preserve Fish

The migratory fish conservation committee, with headquarters in the Woolworth building, New York city, has appointed a campaign and ways and means committee to work along lines for the restoration of fish. The problem of restoring the fishery resources of the United States, which has already been lost, the committee stressed the need of a "sane and just federal law, providing at once all proper authority for present fishing, and a rational regard for the fishing of the future."

Willis S. Holt, secretary of the Lowell Fish and Game association, is a member of the advisory committee of the migratory fish conservation committee, and he has received the following letter, which is self-explanatory:

"Dear Sir: Not many years ago we had a country in which the supply of Atlantic and Pacific salmon, coho, striped bass, blue fish, white fish of the Great Lakes, and other species, together with the food fish needed by the people, was abundant. For various purposes, the Atlantic salmon and the sturgeon have gone and all others have greatly decreased in numbers and are growing fewer. Unless radical action is taken to restore the fishery resources of the United States, this country will find itself facing the problem of trying to restore a natural resource of which it has lost the supply."

Common sense and a little foresight would have continued this resource for all time, and it is the American people who are to be blamed for the present demand that the present conditions cease. These game and food fishes belong to them and this campaign is directed to the citizen. If present conditions are to be restored, the voice of the whole nation must demand it.

In the fall of 1920 the Camp Fire Club of America determined to use its efforts to start an active campaign to bring together all who are interested in the conservation of our migratory fish, both of coastal and inland waters.

At the seventh annual convention of the American Game Protective association, a committee was formed to be known as the migratory fish conservation committee. It consists of a campaign and ways and means committee, and an advisory board.

The call for a federal fish law which shall provide equally for all proper liberty for present fishing and for a rational regard for the fishing of the future.

What protection our fish have had in the past has been through state legislation. This has proved wholly inadequate for the selfish present interests of commercial fishermen have ruled the legislation of many states. Too often the commercial fisherman is concerned with the present profit of this year, and thinks neither of the public nor of the more or less remote future. Thus, on the one side of this issue will be ranged the fish consuming public and the fishermen whose interest is not wholly for immediate gain; while on the other side, opposed to this movement, will surely be found the selfish interests of the commercial fisherman, who is careless of the rights of the fisherman of the future.

At a congressional hearing in 1914 on a bill before congress to protect migratory fish, Dr. T. H. Smith, United States commissioner of fisheries, spoke hopefully of the attempt to control the fisheries by the states, saying: "We get very little encouragement from some states whose interests in the fisheries are large and in which the condition of the fishing industry is in a critical stage." This bill failed of passage.

A certain amount of money is needed for this campaign of publicity. You can help those who are giving their time and money to this work by a contribution sent to any member of the committee or to the treasury. But far more important than money is the giving of your thought, your interest and your influence, so that the whole people may be aroused to the importance of preserving our fish. It is likely to be a battle between the good of the whole people and the selfish advantage of a small number.

Federal control and a treaty with Great Britain will secure to the nation a lasting and adequate supply of migratory food and game fish.

This has worked well in the case of migratory birds. It would work also with migratory fish.

OFFICIAL CALL

This is how the Japanese ambassador, Baron Kijuro Shidehara, dresses up when he pays an official diplomatic call. He was snapped at the White House when he made his first official call on President Harding.

NEW BEDFORD AND FALL RIVER IN CLOSE RACE

As New Bedford and Fall River ran an even race last week in the fight for the pennant in the American Roller Polo league, the Whalers still hold their lead of three games. As the two contending teams are scheduled to meet twice this week and as the league is nearing its end, another week should go a long way towards determining the ultimate winner of the championship.

The race now seems to rest between these two clubs as Providence on paper one of the strongest if not the strongest lineup in the league, has fallen down badly during the last few weeks and is now 7 1/2 games behind.

Hartford and Worcester are having it out for fourth place, while Lowell, now playing as good polo as any team in the league, is so far behind that it will have little chance to move up.

The team as now constituted however will win the majority of its games, and had the present lineup been assembled at the beginning of the season, no doubt the locals would be up there fighting with the leaders.

Lowell has four games scheduled for this week. Tonight the team will play at Providence. Tomorrow night Fred Jean and his Fall River team will be here. Lowell will lay off Wednesday and Thursday nights. On Friday night the New Bedford Whalers will play here. Saturday night Lowell will play in Worcester. The complete schedule for the week follows:

Monday—Lowell in Providence; Worcester in Hartford.
Tuesday—Fall River in Lowell; Providence in New Bedford.
Wednesday—Providence in Worcester; New Bedford in Fall River.
Thursday—Worcester in New Bedford; Hartford in Fall River.
Friday—New Bedford in Lowell; Fall River in New Bedford.
Saturday—Lowell in Worcester; Fall River in New Bedford; Hartford in Providence.

TRAINING CAMP NOTES
ST. LOUIS, March 21.—Steve Ferrell, a pitcher, has been released to the Terre Haute club of the Three I league by the St. Louis Americans, a dispatch from the training camp of the Browns at Bogalusa, La., today said.

ST. LOUIS, March 21.—Advices from the camp of the St. Louis Nationals at Orange, Tex., are that President Brennan has announced no further operations for a season at Milton, Tex., third baseman, and Jack Smith, outfielder, who are holdouts.

NEW YORK, March 21.—The New York Giants were at Fort Worth, Tex., today with the Fort Worth Texas league team.

NEW YORK, March 21.—The New York American baseball team will have all five of its exhibition games on a week's tour through Louisiana, returned today to the Shreveport training camp.

ST. LOUIS, March 21.—George T. Porter, an infielder, who wears spectacles, while playing, has been obtained from the Syracuse club of the International league by the St. Louis Nationals in exchange for several players and a cash consideration, a dispatch from the training camp of the Cardinals in Orange, Tex., today said.

HOLE IN SIX INFIELD
BOSTON, March 21.—Absence of "Stuffy" McInnis at first and Derrill Pratt at second, leaves a hole in the Boston Red Sox lineup that is hard to patch up, according to a dispatch received here today from Hot Springs, McInnis is a holdout and Pratt, who was awarded to the Boston club in a trade with the New York Yankees, has not reported.

Sam Jones, Joe Bush, Elmer Myers and Ernest Nuttall were sent to the mound in yesterday's game against Pittsburgh in a vain attempt to hold the Pirates in check, but the National leaguers won, 2 to 2.

WILSON CALLS OFF BOUT
BOSTON, March 21.—Johnny Wilson, middleweight titleholder, fractured one of the principal bones of his left hand in the third round of his bout with Mike O'Dowd in New York last Thursday night, and as a result his match with Jack Britton, scheduled for March 25, will be postponed. It was announced here last night. An X-ray photograph of Wilson's hand, taken here yesterday, disclosed the fracture.

CHESS TOURNAMENT
HAVANA, March 21.—Dr. Emanuel Lasker and Jose R. Capablanca, will start tonight preparatory to resuming tomorrow night the third game in their world championship chess tournament, which was adjourned at the end of yesterday's third game which resulted in a draw, as did the first two.

WILL TRY CHANNEL SWIM
Undismayed by the failure of Henry F. Sullivan, Lowell's long distance swimmer, to negotiate the English channel, Miss Zetta Hills will try this summer to swim from her home at Folkestone, England, across the channel to the French coast. She is shown in her bathing suit, and rope-jumping to increase her endurance.

Associated Press)—Details of the fall of Kronstadt before the repeated onslaughts of the Bolshevik army under command of Leon Trotsky, the soviet war minister, have been brought here by refugees.

In the citadel, according to the refugees, some 1700 men were left seeking to fight their way toward the east, and in the other fortresses approximately 1000 were made prisoners by the Bolsheviks. All officers and leaders among the military forces and civilians were immediately picked out and on Trotsky's order, given before the final attack, were executed. Their bodies were thrown on the ice of the Gulf of Finland with stones and scrap iron in the pockets so that they will sink when the ice breaks up.

The horrors of the days of storming cannot be described. The refugees say the insurrectionary forces were repeatedly betrayed by inhabitants and small bodies of the rebels were fired on and mowed down by machine guns in the hands of local communists. The garrison was not strong enough to rush these forces of communists and simultaneously repulse attacks from the outside. Everyone, old or young, man or woman, with or without weapons, who got in the way of or was hunted up by the Bolsheviks was killed. In retaliation, the refugees asked no pardon being asked and none being given.

The town of Kronstadt suffered severely. At the beginning of the retreat by the insurrectionists big fires were burning in five places, but by Friday no smoke or fire could be seen.

Only a few refugees arrived this morning after an adventurous night. They were clad in white and had badly wounded hands sustained in creeping for miles along the ice in order to escape detection by Bolshevik patrols. The refugees say, however, that the Bolsheviks have established a circular chain of sentries and patrols around Kronstadt, through which it is impossible to break.

Kronstadt had big stores of army equipment, which explained the good attire of the soldiers and sailors arriving in Finland. The latter country will have great difficulty in feeding the hungry refugees. The Finnish press, in opposing care of the refugees by the government, urges that the League of Nations should intervene.

W. C. T. U. to Launch Campaign for Strict Sunday Observance and Against Smoking
CHICAGO, March 21.—A campaign by the Women's Christian Temperance union for strict Sunday observance and against tobacco, was announced today by Miss Anna Gordon, national president, to start April 3. Beginning that day, there will be a week of prayer for the success of the campaign, and Sunday April 10, is designated as anti-tobacco Sunday, when literature to be sent out to W. C. T. U. branches, churches, schools and colleges, will be distributed. Large signs, announcing the program for the campaign, will be sent out soon.

The announcement stated that 400,000 persons are now working on Sunday in this country and restrictions are to be sought on golfing, pleasure auto-driving, baseball, movies, theatres and dancing on Sunday.

24 KILLINGS OVER WEEK

END IN IRELAND

DUBLIN, March 21. (By A. P.)—A "black week-end" has just been experienced by the crown forces in Ireland, according to official reports. Eleven members of the government forces were killed and 11 wounded in various ambushes, while it is believed that 13 of their assailants were killed and 10 wounded.

The reports do not take into account isolated murders and outrages which are continually reported.

Three bombs were thrown at a military lorry here last night. Two bombs exploded, killing two soldiers and wounding six others, including an officer. The remaining soldiers fired, wounding three of the attacking party.

Capt. Atkinson, an Ulster barrister who acted as judge in a number of recent Dublin courts-martial, was attacked at his home Saturday night by three armed men. He was wounded.

John Sheehan, a former attendant at the Cork Lunatic asylum, was shot dead at Cork last night. He had been suspected of giving information last December, on the occasion of the arrest of a girl wearing steel armor, concerning a republican arsenal. This was the second time Sheehan had been attacked. He received several wounds when the first attempt was made.

From Monday night on the curfew has been fixed from 8 o'clock at night until 6 o'clock in the morning.

The advancement of the curfew hour, which was due to yesterday's ambush, affects the whole of the Dublin area, except the coast townships.

The ambush of crown forces near Kinsale, County Cork, Saturday, occurred when reinforcements were proceeding to seek a military officer and a police sergeant who were missing as a result of a previous ambush, it was learned yesterday.

The missing officer has been recovered, but the body of the sergeant has been found near Dungarvan, blindfolded and riddled with bullets. A card pinned to his breast was inscribed "Executed."

Crowds yesterday gazed curiously at a man chained to the railing of the pro-cathedral in Marlborough street here, but no one tried to free him until the police came. It was said he had been chained to the railing because he worked during the executions of six men in Mountjoy prison on Mar. 14, in disobedience to the call for a cessation of labor.

The archbishop of Tuam in a letter to the parish priest of Clifden, condemning the shooting of the men there as a reprisal of the Mountjoy executions and the failure to obey his call for a cessation of executions by the republican forces, says: "I must give my people moral guidance, even if corrupt politicians turn gospel teachings to bad ends."

The archbishop repeats his appeal for a truce and urges the government, as the stronger side, to call a truce and initiate peace negotiations.

GEN. WRANGEL APPEALS TO MANY NATIONS

CONSTANTINOPLE, March 21.—(By Associated Press)—Appeals are being made to many nations by General Wrangel, head of the South Russian government, who was driven from Crimea by the Bolsheviks late last year, to come to the aid of the anti-Bolshevik forces. He still believes there is a chance to defeat the soviet government and drive Lenin and Trotsky from power in Moscow.

"Bolshevism is dying and this is an ill-chosen moment to disband my troops," he said today in commenting upon the French withdrawal of aid from his forces and the suggestion that his soldiers be repatriated to Russia. "France cannot bear the burden alone, and I am appealing to all nations for help. I cannot accept either the alternative of sending my men to Brazil, where they are promised manual labor, but no land or of returning them to Russia, where the spirit of vengeance is so strong that they would be massacred."

Many of Gen. Wrangel's officers are joining the French Foreign Legion.

CIGAR MAKERS LOSE

Nearly 10,000 Go Back Into Open Shops

TAMPA, Fla., March 21.—On a strictly open shop basis the cigar strike, which has been in force 10 months and which caused a loss in actual money to strikers of over $12,000,000 and $2,000,000 to the government, has been settled and nearly all of the ten thousand workmen are back at their benches.

The vote taken by advisory board stood two to one in favor of returning to work on open shop basis.

Under normal conditions the payroll of the industry is about $300,000 per week.

The strike was called April 14 last year following the refusal of the Cigar Manufacturers' association to employ no one but members of the International Association of Cigar Makers or their affiliated bodies.

Ten thousand cigar makers were under the control of the joint advisory board that issued the strike order. Several conciliators from the department of labor were sent here but to no avail, neither side seeming to display any desire to meet with the other.

3000 Go Back

In August the manufacturers agreed to open their shops on an open shop basis and about three thousand men returned to work.

Money for the strike poured in from all parts of the United States and Cuba and strikers were paid on the average of four dollars per week.

Finally, however, strike funds became low and the rank and file began a clamor for a settlement which resulted in the international union advising the local leaders to submit to a referendum. This resulted in the decision of the men to return.

The question of wages was never brought up by the strikers.

Did Not Know What Hit Him

Johnston's head was resting partly in a garbage pail. Maier untied the man and telephoned to the police station, which is just around the corner of High street. Officers Warren Totty, Alfred Newman and William Fitzhenry answered the call and rushed Johnston to the Dedham Emergency hospital. Dr. Hollis G. Racheider worked on the senseless man for nearly half an hour before he began to recover.

When his head cleared, Johnston declared he did not know what had hit him. All he knew was that he opened the door and something cracked down on his head. He did not see the person who struck the blow and has no idea of his identity.

In the meantime Mr. Gilbert heard of the attack on his employee. Going to the restaurant, Gilbert inspected the cash register and found that $25 in bills had vanished, although nearly $10 in change had been left in the drawer. Quite a number of dimes were scattered on the floor.

sumed a serious aspect, and since then he failed steadily until the end came despite the efforts of medical skill and the devoted attention of his mother and sisters.

Deceased was born in Manchester, N. H. 47 years ago, but came to Lowell when a mere boy, was educated in the public schools and Boston University, from which he graduated in 1907. For many years he was a salesman in the Lowell One Price Clothing store, now Macartney's, and afterwards conducted a gents' furnishing store on Central street until his illness came on.

dermen, during three of which he was chairman. During his incumbency as chairman he served for a time as acting mayor in the absence of Mayor Charles E. Howe, and it fell to his lot to have charge at the time of the South Lowell explosion. He promptly called out the militia and handled the situation in a manner that brought him the praise of the public in general.

He had been a candidate for the municipal council under the present charter but was defeated by a narrow margin. He was identified with several fraternal orders including the Knights of Columbus, Division 11, A.O.U.W., the Loyal Order of Eagles, the Y.M.C.A., the Loyal Order of Moose and the Burke Temperance Institute during its entire existence. He was a man of upright character, honorable in all his dealings and the friend of every good citizen. ## SPRING COLDS ATTACK THOSE WHO ARE WEAK AND RUN DOWN

People who have become weak and run-down during the winter either from overwork or following grip, or other serious illness are in special danger during the trying days of early spring. The weakened system is wide open to attacks of disease and new resisting power must be built up without delay.

For this purpose no better tonic food medicine can be used than Father John's Medicine, because the pure, nourishing elements of which it is made rebuild health and strength. A doctor's prescription in use more than sixty-five years—

Father John's Medicine is guaranteed free from alcohol or any dangerous drugs. The wholesome, strength-building food which it contains is easily taken up by the system and it gives the very resisting power so greatly needed at this time.
